AUCTION TERMS

This is an internet and mail bid sale with an automated electronic close, conducted by Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. (CNG). Bidding in the auction constitutes acceptance of the following terms:

1. The property listed in this catalogue is offered for sale by CNG for itself and as agent for various owners and other consignors. We reserve the right to reject any bid, to determine the opening price, to set bidding increments, to vary the order of the auction, to reopen bidding in the case of a dispute, to withdraw any lot, to bid on behalf of CNG, to bid on behalf of the consignor, and to permit the consignor to bid on his own lots. CNG may loan or advance money to consignors or prospective bidders, and may have an interest other than commission charges in any lot. CNG may bid on its own account as an "insider" with information not available to the public.

2. Lots will be sold in the order listed in the catalogue. The first lot will close electronically at www.cngcoins.com at 8AM Eastern Time on the sale date, with subsequent lots closing every 20 seconds thereafter. All written, fax, email and phone bids must be received by 5PM Eastern Time, on the day prior to the sale date. Electronic bids may be placed by approved bidders up until the closing time of each lot. The electronic clock on the website represents the official closing time for each lot. Bidders intending to bid electronically must first register at www.cngcoins.com. New website registrations are processed for approval Monday through Friday 9AM-5PM Eastern Time only. No new registrations will be approved on the sale date.

3. A 20% Buyer's Fee will be added to the hammer price of all successful written, fax, email and phone bids. A 17.5% Buyer's Fee will be added to the hammer price of all successful electronic bids directly placed on www.cngcoins.com.

4. All coins are guaranteed genuine. Attribution, date, condition and other descriptions are the opinion of the cataloguer, and no warranty is expressed or implied. Please note that an auction sale is not an approval sale. Lots examined prior to the sale and lots purchased by floor bidders (including bidders executing commission bids on behalf of other parties) may not be returned for any reason except lack of authenticity. All claims of misdescription and all claims of return, except claims regarding authenticity, must be made within 5 days of receipt of material. Any claim of lack of authenticity must be made in writing by the original purchaser immediately after discovery that an item is not authentic, and upon making such a claim the original purchaser must immediately return the lot to CNG in the same condition as at the time of the auction. Coins that have been encapsulated ("slabbed") by a grading and/or authentication service may not be returned for any reason, including authenticity, if they have been removed from the encapsulation ("slab"). If payment is made by credit card, rights of return are governed by these Auction Terms which supercede any rights of return promulgated by the card issuer. Estimates are intended as a guide only and not as a statement of opinion of value.

5. Invoices are due and payable immediately upon receipt. Interest and late fees of 2.0% per month, or at the highest rate permitted by law, whichever is less, from the date of the auction, shall be payable on invoices not settled within 30 days of the auction date. Payment may be made by check or bank wire. Credit cards (Visa or MasterCard) will be accepted; credit card payments will not be accepted more than 14 days after the sale date. Payment by check must be made in either US dollars ($) drawn on a US bank or British sterling (£) drawn on a British bank. All successful bidders outside North America and the United Kingdom will be charged an additional $20 fee for bank charges that are the result of international wire transfer fees; this fee will be deducted for credit card or check payment as described above. CNG may reduce or compromise any charge or fee at its discretion.

6. Bidders not known to us must provide satisfactory credit references or pay a deposit as determined at CNG's discretion before bidding. Minors are not permitted to bid without written consent of a parent guaranteeing payment. CNG may require payment in full from any bidder prior to delivery of lots. Title does not pass until lots are paid in full. Upon receipt of lots, the buyer assumes full responsibility for loss or damage. Delivery to the buyer's address of record shall constitute receipt by the buyer regardless of the identity of the person accepting delivery.

7. Estimates are in U.S. dollars ($) and bids must be made in even dollar ($ amounts). The CNG website, www.cngcoins.com, will execute electronic bids on behalf of all electronic bidders. Subject to reserves and opening prices, all electronic bids will be executed by the electronic software at one bidding increment (approximately 10%) over the next highest bid. All written, fax, email and phone bids received before 5PM the day prior to the sale date will be uploaded to the CNG website no later than the day prior to the sale date. These bids will not be subject to the minimum required bid cited on the website at the time of the upload. Any written, fax, email and phone bids received after the deadline or with special instructions will be executed at CNG's complete discretion and will be subject to the next bid required by the website. In the case of identical written, fax, email and phone bids, the earliest bid received wins. An electronic bid has priority over any identical written, fax, email or phone bid. Bid by lot number. No lot will be broken. Bidders are responsible for errors in bidding. Check your bids carefully. Electronic bidders may check their bids under User Services at www.cngcoins.com.

8. A word on Reserves. CNG may place a reserve on any lot. However, no reserve will be higher than the estimate, and ordinarily lots are reserved at 60% of estimate.

9. Bidders personally guarantee payment for their successful bids, including bidders executing commission bids from other parties and bidders representing corporations or other entities. Buyers accepting commission bids from other parties do so at their own risk and remain responsible for payment under these Auction Terms.

10. In the event a successful bidder fails to make full payment within 30 days of the auction date, CNG reserves the right to deem the sale incomplete and to resell the material, and the bidder agrees to pay for the reasonable cost of such a sale and also to pay any difference between the resale price and the previously successful bid. CNG reserves all rights that it is entitled to under the Pennsylvania Uniform Commercial Code, including the right to offset any sums due from a successful bidder against any future consignment or purchase or monies or goods in possession of CNG.

11. Sales tax, postage, handling and insurance are the responsibility of the buyer and are added to all invoices where appropriate. For buyers in the European Union, CNG may import lots into the United Kingdom prior to shipment and charge buyers the import Value Added Tax. On any tax not paid by the purchaser which should have been paid, even if not invoiced by CNG, the purchaser agrees to pay the same on demand together with any interest or penalty that may be assessed. It is the responsibility of the buyer to comply with foreign customs and other regulations.

12. Prices realized are published and are mailed with CNG's next publication. Prices realized are posted at www.cngcoins.com and successful electronic bidders are notified by email after the last lot of the sale closes.

13. Bidders hereby waive any claim for incidental, consequential or exemplary damages arising from this auction. The sole remedy that any participant in the auction shall have for any claim or controversy arising out of the auction shall be a refund, without interest, of all or part of the purchase price paid by the participant.

14. All rights granted by CNG or otherwise available to bidders and purchasers, under these Auction Terms or otherwise, are personal and may not be assigned or transferred to any other person or entity, whether by operation of law or otherwise. No third party may rely on any benefit or right conferred by these Auction Terms. Bidders acting as agents must disclose the agency in writing to CNG prior to the auction; otherwise rights are limited to the agent and are not transferable to the undisclosed principal.

15. Any dispute regarding this auction shall be governed by the laws of Pennsylvania and shall be adjudicated only by the Lancaster County Court of Common Pleas or the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania; all bidders submit themselves to the personal jurisdiction of these courts for this purpose, consent to service of process by registered or certified mail, and waive any contrary provisions of Articles 14 or 15 of the French Civil Code and any similar provisions in any jurisdiction. All bidders consent to the confidentiality of consignors' identities and waive any right to require disclosure of the name of the consignor or owner of any auction lot, whether such right is based on New York GOL §5-701(a) or any other provision in any jurisdiction. In any dispute regarding this auction, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable costs and attorney fees.

All written, fax, email and phone bids must be received by 5PM (ET) May 21, 2013.

The Electronic Close starts at 8AM ET on May 22, 2013. Lots close every 20 seconds.

To participate in this sale electronically you must be registered and approved to bid on www.cngcoins.com.

Please read the auction terms for new information regarding bidding, buyer's fees, and payment of invoices.

This issue belongs to a group of late staters that all share similar qualities, such as Nike crowning Athena rather than the royal name, and have a somewhat “coarse” style (cf. Callataÿ pl. 38, J-M). Although Callataÿ agrees with Seyrig’s dating of circa 150 for this group, Marinescu sees them as related to the Mithradatic period, and places them contemporary to Callataÿ’s period 2B (which is also why these are not included in his dissertation, which ends with the Mithradatic period). This lower dating is based on recently published examples that have an obverse portrait style that has the features of Mithradates VI (cf. Gorny & Mosch 142, lot 1078, and Gorny & Mosch 126, lot 1194). Similar adaptations of the king’s likeness is commonly found on coin issues from many cities under Mithradatic influence during this period.

EF, lustrous, struck from worn reverse die, slight die shift on reverse. Extremely rare, one of two known (the other in the BM). ($7500)

Ex Stack's (17 Sept. 1980), lot 60.

The attribution of this coin to Ephesos is based upon the appearance of the A control on the throne on various Ephesos drachm issues (cf. Thompson 173–4), the obverses of which also have a remarkably similar style to this stater. M.J. Price also thought this stater issue was related to these Ephesian drachms (see N. Sicurella, op cit., SAN Journal XIV/2). There is a possibility that there also was an issue of drachms with only the A control mark—such a piece is described as no. 402 in the collection of Abbé J.-G.-Honoré Greppo, vicar-general of the diocese of Belley (J. de Witte, Description des médailles et des antiquités du cabinet de M. L'Abbé H. G [Paris: Franck, 1856]). Unfortunately, the piece is not illustrated in the publication of the collection, and its present disposition is unknown. Perhaps the most unusual aspect of these staters is the orientation of the legends, which is unique to this issue: the royal title is on the left, and the name of Lysimachos is on the right.

124. KINGS of THRACE. Lysimachos. 305-281 BC. AR Tetradrachm (30mm, 16.60 g, 12h). Kios mint. Struck early-mid 3rd century BC. - 128. KINGS of THRACE. Kavaros. Circa 230/25-218 BC. AR Tetradrachm (28mm, 16.92 g, 12h). In the name and types of Alexander III of Macedon. Kabyle mint. Head of Herakles right, wearing lion skin / Zeus Aëtrophoros seated left; in left field, Artemis Phosphoros standing facing. Draganov 874-83 var. (O5/R – [unlisted rev. die]); Price 882. Good VF, lightly toned, small deposits. ($500)

According to Draganov's die study, this issue in the name of Alexander was struck after the Alexander type coins in the name of Kavaros. The obverse die used on this coin was used for both tetradrachm issues, in Alexander's name and in Kavaros's.

- 129. KINGS of THRACE. Sadalas. Circa 48-42 BC. Æ (15mm, 3.06 g, 1h). Laureate and draped bust right / Eagle standing left on thunderbolt. Peykov Type I, C6300; Youroukova 149-52. Near VF, dark green patina. ($200)

- 130. MACEDON, Akanthos. Circa 500-480 BC. AR Tetrobol (17mm, 2.31 g). Forepart of lioness right; floral symbol above / Quadripartite incuse square with granulated quarters and central pellet. SNG ANS 21. Near EF, toned. ($500)

131. MACEDON, Chalkidian League. Circa 390 BC. AR Tetradrachm (22mm, 14.44 g, 11h). Olynthos mint. Laureate head of Apollo left / Kithara within incuse square. Robinson & Clement Group F, 11 var. (A10/P- [unlisted rev. die]); SNG ANS 472-3. Good VF, bright surfaces, some die rust. ($3000)

132. MACEDON, Chalkidian League. Circa 382-379 BC. AR Tetradrachm (23mm, 14.45 g, 9h). Olynthos mint. Reverse die signed by Thre-. Head of Apollo right, wearing laurel wreath; floral symbol behind neck / Kithara, $\Xi\theta\circ(?)$ on base; X-A-Λ-KΙΔ-ΕΩΝ above and at sides; all within incuse square. Robinson & Clement Group I, 42 (A32/P38); SNG ANS -; Hirsch 967; CNG 84, lot 208; CNG E-242, lot 30 (all from the same dies). Near EF, bright surfaces, a little die wear. Extremely rare, and amongst the finest known. (\$5000)

Neither Robinson & Clement nor P. Naster (Hirsch) noted the small letters on the base of the kithara, which should be the beginning of a name, possibly the die engraver or mint magistrate. Although the symbol on the obverse is mostly obscured on the three known examples of this die pairing, two recent examples (CNG 84, lot 208 and CNG 91, lot 117) struck from this same obverse die clearly show that it is a floral symbol, not a letter B (as Robinson and Clement suggested).

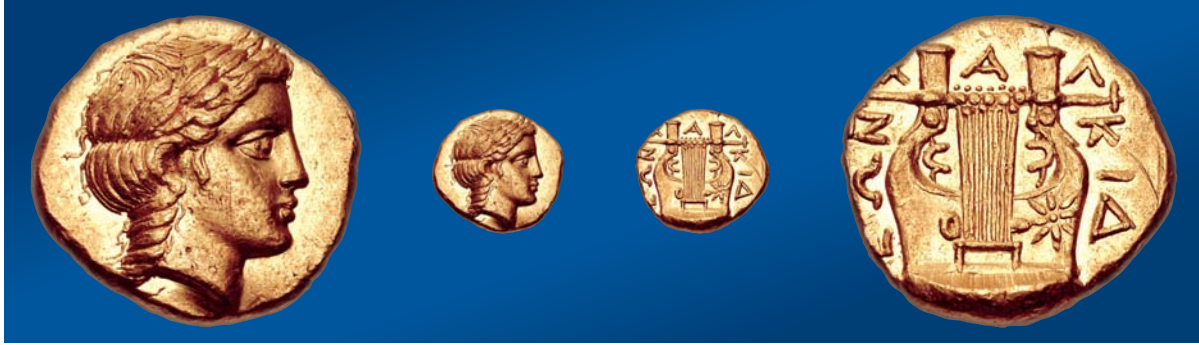

133. MACEDON, Chalkidian League. Circa 382-379 BC. AR Tetrobol (13mm, 2.40 g, 5h). Olynthos mint. Laureate head of Apollo left / Kithara within incuse square. Robinson & Clement Group I, 86 and 88-90 var. (A59/P- [unlisted rev. die]); SNG ANS 535 (same obv. die). EF, bright surfaces. ($500)

134. MACEDON, Chalkidian League. Circa 382-379 BC. AR Tetrobol (14mm, 2.36 g, 12h). Olynthos mint. Laureate head of Apollo right / Kithara within incuse square. Robinson & Clement Group I, 94 (A61/P62); SNG ANS 534. EF, bright surfaces, some porosity on reverse. Attractive portrait style. ($500)

Extremely Rare Chalkidian League Stater

135. MACEDON, Chalkidian League. Circa 365-359 or 357-348 BC. AV Stater (17mm, 8.62 g, 12h). Olynthos mint. Head of Apollo right, wearing laurel wreath, with long hair in a single plait down the back of his neck / Kithara, star on lower right panel; X-A-Λ-KIΔ-EQN around. Unpublished. Near EF, underlying luster, minor flan flaw at 3 o'clock on reverse. Extremely rare denomination, only three have appeared at auction in recent decades (CNG 91 [2012], lot 120; New York Sale XXV [2011], lot 24; and CNG 87 [2011], lot 292; none in the ANS photofile). Taking advantage of the loosening of Athenian control over the Chalkidike due to the Peloponnesian War, in 432/1 BC the cities of the region formed themselves into a league with its capital at Olynthos. The failure of Athens to break up the Chalkidian League - one of the terms of the Peace of Nikias in 421 BC - as well as a general strategic disinterest in the region, helped to solidify the League's power and position. As a result of this situation, the League began striking silver coinage in its own name. Adopting the local "Phoenician" standard already in use by Olynthos, only tetrobols were minted in any quantity at first, but after about 420 BC, tetradrachms were regularly struck. The very rare issues of gold staters, struck on the Attic standard, are certainly tied to the tumultuous events in the second quarter of the 4th century BC.

The political situation in which the League found itself at that time was influenced by the competing interests of Athens, who had historic ties to the region, Sparta, who constantly sought to check any advance of Athenian power, and the Macedonian Kingdom, which sought to expand its influence over its neighbor to the south. Sparta's defeat at Leuktra in 371 BC, and the subsequent peace, provided Athens with the opportunity to reconstitute the Second Athenian Empire, beginning with the Chalkidike. In 365 BC, the Athenian general, Timotheos, began to conquer territory in the northern Aegean on behalf of Athens. He quickly subdued the island of Samos and gained a foothold in the Thracian Chersonese, from where he could direct his attention to the Chalkidike. With the help of Perdikkas III of Macedon, Timotheos attacked the League and its capital, Olynthos. Although unable to take the capital, Timotheos was successful in quickly capturing a large part of the League's territory. His campaign was so successful that he used the opportunity to attack his erstwhile ally, Macedon, as well. In 363 BC, in addition to seizing the city of Potidaia, an important Chalkidian port near the League capital of Olynthos, Timotheos also captured the Macedonian ports of Methone, Terone, and Pydna, located in the Thermian Gulf. For all of his initial success against the Chalkidian League, however, Timotheos was unable to conquer Amphipolis, or solidify his hold over the areas he seized, and eventually abandoned his northern Aegean enterprise in 360 BC. In the years immediately following, it would be Amyntas' youngest son, Philip II, who would achieve what both the Chalkidian League and Timotheos were unable to do - bring the entire region and all of its cities and tribes under one authority. In 348 BC Philip dissolved the League.

For what purpose were these extremely rare Attic-standard gold staters struck? Given the regional turmoil at the time, a possible explanation would be that the coins were an emergency issue meant for the payment of local Thracian mercenaries due to a scarcity of silver. Psoma, however, shows that the League regularly struck significant amounts of silver coinage during this period, something that would be impossible if no supply of silver was available. As such, payments to mercenaries probably would have been in the form of the League's silver issues, whose Phoenician weight standard was common throughout the region. At this time, gold was rarely coined in the Greek world, with only the Persian Empire and Kyzikos minting issues with any regularity. Most often gold was struck when necessity required its use, as it had been at Athens late in the Peloponnesian War. Coinciding as it did with the League's war against Athens, this gold issue (as well as similar extremely rare gold Attic staters issued from the League's then ally Amphipolis) had to be struck not for local consumption, but for foreign recipients who required payment in coinage struck on the Attic standard. Bribes in gold are known to have been a part of classical diplomacy. The Persian Empire tried to affect the outcome of the Peloponnesian War by funneling darics to both Athens and Sparta, and Philip II, once he gained control of Mt. Pangaeon, struck coinage on the Attic standard (including staters), which he used to gain control over the Greek city-states (cf. Dem. 5.5). Thus, if the League's staters were not for payments to mercenaries, they most likely were made to acquire influential overseas support through bribes.

Approximately twelve staters of the League are known. At the time of the publication of Psoma's study in 2001, only Robinson & Clement Groups L (1 coin), S (1 coin), T (1 coin), and W (3 coins), were known to have staters associated with them. Three other staters, all from one die pairing, however, remain unassigned, and likely belong to an unrecorded magistrate: B.M. Yakountchikoff, Unpublished and rare Greek coins (St. Petersburg, 1908), p. 8, no. 17; SNG ANS 468; and New York Sale XXV (2011), lot 24. The CNG 87 piece added yet another new issue to the corpus of Chalkidian coinage, belonging either to Group L or a heretofore unknown transitional group between Groups L and M.

The placement of the present stater and CNG 91 piece within the series is uncertain. While the bottom of their reverses is not fully visible, the contour of the lower part of the kithara indicates that it is just above the lower edge of the die, leaving no room for a magistrate's name below the kithara. Although it is tempting to place them in the same period as the CNG 87 stater, pre-dating the magistrate issues, the style of their obverse makes this more difficult. The austere features of the portrait and the long hair depicted in a single plait are unlike all the depictions of Apollo in the known coinage. Nevertheless, the gold denomination was an exceptional one in the series, and it is very plausible that the die engraver of this issue was not involved in the regular silver and bronze issues. The appearance of a subsidiary symbol, a star, on the kithara, may be more helpful in suggesting a placement of the issue in the larger series. The last pre-magistrate group, Group M, also has a subsidiary symbol on the reverse, a tripod. At the same time, Group M also features a variety of obverse styles, with right and left-facing heads, and with long and short hairstyles. As such, it is possible that this stater is from a new group either preceding or following Group M. One other possibility exists. As the star is a symbol of the Macedonian royal house, one wonders whether its appearance here serves as some reference to Macedonian authority? Philip II allied with the League against Athens after the latter declared war against him in 357 BC. This military alliance proved fruitful for both parties, enduring until the 349 BC, and could have necessitated a special issue of staters.

Ex Triton XV (3 January 2012), lot 1132 (sold for hammer $2250, but not paid).

The description of Price 2686 omits the monogram in left field that was in the previous issues, but this description is erroneous. ADM I Series XX, 403c-d notes that the Δ has been added below the throne, but the other monograms of Series XX also continue. This is further verified by Thompson's remarks on the Megara Hoard on pp. 93-4 in ADM, where she reports on coin 403c, and includes this monogram.

From the Kelly J. Krizan, M.D. Collection. Ex Classical Numismatic Review XIX/3 (3rd Quarter 1994), p. 10, Special-64.

Such Thessalian imitations of Rhodian drachms featuring a grape bunch on the reverse form a distinctive series from the Thessalian “Hermias” coinage. They are also much rarer – at the time of his publication Ashton knew of a total of only 95 coins from the grape bunch series bearing six different names (while approximately 750 of the Hermias drachms were found in the 1968 Thessaly Hoard alone). It has been convincingly argued that the Hermias drachms were struck to pay Cretan mercenaries serving in Perseus’ army, who would have desired to be paid in trusted Rhodian-style currency, and were issued under the authority of Hermias, son of Zoilos, a supporter of Perseus from Oropos. The names on the grape bunch series, however, copy those of genuine Rhodian drachms from the early 2nd century BC, ostensibly “to encourage acceptance of the coinage by Cretan mercenaries” (Ashton p. 32). While we know from hoard evidence that coins of the grape bunch series were circulating in the region of Thessaly, and that the reason for their striking was doubtless prompted by the presence there of large numbers of Cretan mercenaries in the region during Perseus’ campaigns against the Roman army, the question of the minting authority is uncertain. Ashton (p. 32) notes “...it is not possible to determine whether these coins were issued by an official Macedonian mint (either traveling with Perseus’ army or static), or by Larissa or some neighboring authority.”

Ex Herbert Cahn Collection; Münzen und Medaillen AG 64 (30 January 1984), lot 113; Vicomte de Sartiges Collection, 218.

From the BCD Thessaly I catalog, regarding this coin: "Many years ago, Herbert Cahn, speaking to a circle of collector friends, described this obverse die as his favorite die in the entire Larissa series. He went on to prove that he really meant it by bidding and buying for himself the de Sartiges coin of these dies, lot 113 at M+M auction 64 of 30 January 1984. The hammer price was CHF 5000, double the already high estimate. It was not often that the professor wanted a coin from one of his own sales, but when he did it always was for a good reason.... Since that time some new profile dies have made their appearance, such as the obverses of lots 1133 and 1134 [in the BCD Thessaly I catalog], but I somehow think that the good professor's choice would still be the same."

244. THESSALY, Larissa. Circa 380-365 BC. AR Drachm (20mm, 6.18 g, 8h). Middle facing head type. Head of the nymph Larissa facing slightly right / Horse grazing right. L-S series 2, type A, O2/R1; BCD Thessaly II 284 (same dies). VF, attractive even dark toning. Very rare. ($750)

From the BCD Collection.

As noted in the die study (L-S), this reverse type is closely related to the types with boukranion symbol on the reverse, as both have the full ethnic inscribed below the exergue line. This issue without the symbol, known from one obverse and two reverse dies, appears to be transitional.

Ex BCD Collection (LHS 96, 8 May 2006), lot 534; Spink America (6 December 1999), lot 636 (part of).

This coin is from a massive issue that was struck in an apparently hasty manner, a fact suggested by the relatively crude dies that were often overused. Many of the known examples are poorly struck, another indication of haste. BCD suggested that this magistrate produced these coins around 31 BC, and that the elaborate, diadem-like wreath on the reverse was a reference to Agrippa's naval victory over the forces of Antony and Cleopatra.

321. ACHAIA, Achaian League. Kleitor. Circa 90-85 BC. AR Hemidrachm (14mm, 2.32 g, 12h). Mithradates' Last Known Stater

- 339. KINGS of PONTOS. Mithradates VI Eupator. Circa 120-63 BC. AV Stater (22mm, 8.45 g, 12h). Pergamon mint. Dated month 12, year 223 BE (September 74 BC). Diademed head right / Pegasos grazing left; ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ above, ΜΙΘΡΑΔΑΤΟΥ ΕΥΠΑΤΟΡΟΣ in two lines below; to left, star-in-crescent above ΓΚΞ (year); to right, ΣΡ above Π; ΙΒ (month) in exergue; all within Dionysiac wreath of ivy and fruit. Unpublished, but cf. Callatay dies D52-55 for tetradrachms from the same date, certainly by the same engraver. Near EF, a few light marks. Superb high relief portrait, boldly struck and beautifully centered on a broad flan. A unique example, the latest known stater from his reign. ($20,000)

Mithradates is the Hellenistic monarch par excellence: his career driven by megalomaniacal ambitions leading to murderous assaults upon family and followers and disastrous foreign adventures against superior forces. His idealized portraiture attempts to mimic the gods with its bold staring gaze and unruly, free-flowing hair, but at its most extreme is a reference to hysteria in its Dionysiac sense. The wreath of ivy on the reverse reinforces Mithradates' link with the god as well as making a connection with the cistaphoric coinage that circulated in the area. The stag probably represents the civic center of Ephesos and the mintmark is of Pergamon, all part of the new Pontic kingdom, symbolized by the star and crescent. His empire collapsed before the armies of Sulla and Lucullus, and Mithradates ended his own life an exile in the far region of the Crimea, pursued to the end by vengeful Romans and family.

Ex Herbert Cahn Collection; Auctiones 8 (27 June 1978), lot 236.

This coin is from the earliest issue of coinage at Tenedos. Although some place this issue in the late 6th century, there are no coins of this type in any hoard recorded before the mid-4th century. In fact, only two 4th century hoards record coins of Tenedos: Troas, 1969 (IGCH 1188), deposited c. 450 BC, and Massyaf, 1961 (IGCH 1483 = CH 8, 587 = CH 9, 362), deposited c. 425-420 BC. The former contained two coins of Tenedos, but further information was not recorded. The second hoard, however, contained a single didrachm, which was from the same issue as the present coin (cf. C.M. Kraay & P.R.S. Mooney, "Two fifth century hoards from the Near East," RN 1968, pl. XXVI, 57). That coin exhibits little wear, supporting a likely date of issue in the early to mid 5th century BC.

401. IONIA, Uncertain. Circa 600-550 BC. EL Hekte – Sixth Stater (10mm, 2.34 g). Lydo-Milesian standard. Figural type. Head of lion right, in linear form / Rough incuse square. Weidauer 119; Traité –; cf. Elektron II 24 (hemihekte); cf. Rosen 278 (hemihekte); cf. SNG Kayhan 708–10 (myshemihektai); SNG von Aulock –; SNG Berry 1029; Gemini X, lot 99 (same dies). Near EF. Very rare denomination. ($1000)

402. IONIA, Uncertain. Circa 600-550 BC. EL Hemihekte – Twelfth Stater (8mm, 1.19 g). Lydo-Milesian standard. Figural type. Head of lion right / Incuse square. Weidauer –; Traité –; Elektron I 21; Elektron II 22; Rosen –; SNG Kayhan –; SNG von Aulock –. VF. Very rare. ($300)

The style of the obverse of this type has a resemblance to similar hemihektes of Miletos (cf. SNG Kayhan 444–8), but the attribution of those pieces is based on their incuses, all of which have geometric shapes or pellets similar to the staters that are conclusively proven to have been from Miletos (cf. SNG Kayhan 440–1). Further study, however, may eventually prove the attribution of these plain-incuse issues to Miletos as well.

403. IONIA, Uncertain. Circa 600-550 BC. EL Hemihekte – Twelfth Stater (7mm, 1.16 g). Lydo-Milesian standard. Figural type. Facing lion head / Incuse square. Weidauer 163 (same dies); Traité I 32; cf. Elektron I 19 (trite); Rosen –; SNG Kayhan 712; SNG von Aulock 1801. Good VF, lightly toned. ($300)

404. IONIA, Uncertain. Circa 600-550 BC. EL Myshemihekte – Twenty-Fourth Stater (6mm, 0.60 g). Lydo-Milesian standard. Figural type. Head of pegasos left / Incuse square. Weidauer 145–6; Traité I 347 (Chios); Elektron II 43; Rosen 287–8; SNG Kayhan 717; SNG von Aulock 1781. Near EF. ($300)

On most examples of this issue, the wing of Pegasos is off the flan, and therefore the type is usually referred to as a horse's head.

Third Known Scarab Hemihekte

405. IONIA, Uncertain. Circa 600-550 BC. EL Hemihekte – Twelfth Stater (8mm, 1.32 g). Phokaic standard. Figural type. Scarab beetle / Quadripartite incuse square. Gemini X, lot 94; Helios 8, lot 276; otherwise unpublished. Good VF. Extremely rare, the third known. ($3000)

Extremely rare for magistrate, the second known without additional symbol on reverse. ($300)

The analysis of the 1996 Myndos hoard by B. Zabel and A.R. Meadows (CH IX, pp. 244-52) revealed three groups of issues, the first two of which included magistrate names and an additional symbol on the reverse, while the last group only had magistrate names. Kallikles is known to have struck hemidrachms in two issues, one with a cornucopia symbol, and one with no additional symbol. Of the former, there are approximately 13 coins known, all from a hoard in 1985 (CH VIII, 481). His second issue, without symbol, is apparently known only from a single specimen in a hoard found in 1987 (CH VIII, 495), which was struck from the same reverse die as the present coin (please note that Table 2 in the Zabel and Meadows article erroneously list this coin as having the cornucopia symbol).

Among the Earliest Representations of a Ship on Coinage

- 426. LYCIA, Phaselis. Circa 550 BC. AR Stater (19mm, 10.88 g). Prow of galley left, terminating in a forepart of a boar / Rough incuse punch. Cf. Heipp-Tamer series 1. EF, toned. Apparently unique. ($2000)

Ex Property of Princeton Economics acquired by Martin Armstrong (Classical Numismatic Group Electronic Auction 271, 11 January 2012), lot 21 (sold for hammer $6000, but not paid); Triton II (1 December 1998), lot 448.

This piece, with the prow in schematic style and a plain, rough incuse, clearly belongs to Heipp-Tamer's first series. Only right-facing prow types had been previously known for this earliest phase of the mint (and Heipp-Tamer only knew of two coins - a stater and a drachm - for the entire series!).

- 427. DYNASTS of LYCIA. Uncertain dynast. Circa 500-470/60 BC. AR Stater (19mm, 9.35 g). Protodynastic series, group A. Forepart of Boar right / Incuse square. Falghera 28; SNG von Aulock 8459; SNG Copenhagen Supp. 367. VF, minor die wear on obverse. ($300)

Ex Classical Numismatic Group 76 (12 September 2007), lot 752; Numismatic Fine Arts IX (10 December 1980), lot 285.

- 428. DYNASTS of LYCIA. Uncertain dynast. Circa 490/80-440/30 BC. AR Trihemiobol(?) (9mm, 1.11 g, 4h). Protodynastic series, group B. Head of boar left / Head of man-headed bull right within incuse square. Falghera —; SNG von Aulock 4102 var. (rev. type left); SNG Copenhagen Supp. —; Traité II 1615bis var. (types in opposite). Good VF, toned, granular surfaces. Very rare. ($300)

From the Kelly J. Krizan, M.D. Collection. Ex Numismatic Fine Arts XXXIII (3 May 1994), lot 1419 (misattributed).

- 429. DYNASTS of LYCIA. Uncertain dynast. Circa 380-370 BC. AR Obol (10mm, 0.56 g, 12h). Murex shell / Sea serpent (ketos?). CNG 70, lot 305; otherwise unpublished. VF, toned, porous. Extremely rare. ($200)

For an obol of Mithrapata with the same obverse type and style, cf. Klein 606 and BMC Lycia 8. While the similarity of the obverse of this type to the Mithrapata issue suggests an attribution to that dynast, all of his coins bear at least a portion of his name, and there are no letters on this coin. As types tend to be transferred from dynast to dynast, it is possible that this issue is from a contemporary of Mithrapata. The sea serpent, though, is not present on any published specimen of a Lycian dynast, which suggests that these coins may not be from the dynasts' series at all.

- 430. DYNASTS of LYCIA. Vekhsere I. Circa 450-430/20 BC. AR Stater (15mm, 8.53 g, 2h). Head of Athena right, wearing crested Corinthian helmet / Triskeles; F↑V-5-5-9-↑ around, diskeles to lower left; all in pelleted square border within incuse square. MAL I Type VIII, 34 (D1/R3) = SNG von Aulock 4129 (same dies); Falghera 156 (same dies); SNG Copenhagen Supp. 432. EF, toned. Very rare. ($5000)

Ex Triton XV (3 January 2012), lot 1252 (sold for hammer $5500, but not paid).

From the Kelly J. Krizan, M.D. Collection. Ex Classical Numismatic Group 54 (14 June 2000), lot 749.

450. CILICIA, Mallos(?). 4th century BC. AR Obol (10mm, 0.73 g, 4h). Lion standing right, feeding / Swan standing right; uncertain letter or symbol above, grain ear to right. Unpublished, but cf. SNG Levante 163 (for similar rev. type, but with different symbol). EF, lightly toned. Apparently unique. ($500)

From the Kelly J. Krizan, M.D. Collection.

Although the obverse type appears to be unknown, the style of the lion is nearly identical to the lion attacking a stag on the reverse of SNG France 426, an obol of Myriandros. As the swan is a type uniquely belonging to Mallos, and the general reverse type, but with different symbol, is known, it is likely that an attribution to Mallos is correct.

Previous authors have noted the denomination of this rare issue as 1/5th tetradrachm or 1/5th stater, based on the Macedonian standard used from Archelaos through Philip II. However, the weights of the two published pieces, 3.19 g and 2.79 g, do not comport well with this idea. The fact that this type is only known in the far eastern mint of Babylon also makes such a weight standard doubtful. Unfortunately, the weights of these two pieces also do not comport well with the local Babylonian standard. Until more pieces come to light, their exact standard and denomination remains unknown.

495. SELEUKID KINGS of SYRIA. Antiochos III 'the Great'. 222-187 BC. AV Oktadrachm (29mm, 34.07 g, 9h). Uncertain mint 68 in Mesopotamia. Struck circa 197-192/0 BC. Diademed head right / [B]ΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΑΝΤΙΟΧΟΥ, Apollo Delphios seated left on omphalos, testing arrow in his right hand, and holding bow in his left hand; M to outer left. Unpublished, but cf. illustration of SC 1132.3b for a tetrachm struck from the same obverse die. VF, a few marks, reverse off center. Unique. ($75,000)

Ex Numismatica Ars Classica 64 (17 May 2012), lot 849.

This oktradrachm was apparently an ad-hoc issue, as it was struck with an obverse die that was used to strike tetrachms in an issue given to Uncertain Mint 68 in Mesopotamia in SC (cf. illustration of SC 1132.3b). The dating of the issue is based on the portrait style, which the authors of SC date circa 197-192/0 BC. The appearance of this oktradrachm suggests that this mint had a place of some importance, but the timeframe of the issue is somewhat enigmatic, as Antiochos was primarily involved in conflict against the Ptolemies in Asia Minor. It is uncertain whether this issue suggests some as yet unknown event to the east, but previously known issues of oktradrachms of Antiochos III have been linked to various military victories.

510. SELEUKID KINGS of SYRIA. Alexander I Balas. 152-145 BC. AR Tetradrachm (25mm, 14.14 g, 1h). Tyre mint. Dated SE 167 (146/5 BC). Diademed and draped bust right / Eagle standing left on prow left; palm frond behind; to left, club surmounted by ☩; to right, ΙΞΡ (date) above Β. SC 1835.6a; Rouvier 1871 var. (monogram); HGC 9, 883; DCA 123. Good VF, bright surfaces, minor edge scuff and small dig on obverse. ($500)

From the Kelly J. Krizan, M.D. Collection. Ex Classical Numismatic Group 43 (24 September 1997), lot 720.

513. SELEUKID KINGS of SYRIA. Kleopatra Thea & Antiochos VIII. 125-121 BC. Æ (21mm, 7.76 g, 1h). Uncertain mint 115 in northern Syria (Damaskos?). Struck circa 122-121 BC. Jugate busts right / Nike advancing left, holding wreath; uncertain symbol (club?) to outer left; to inner left, H above palm frond. SC 2265 var. (no symbol to outer left); HGC 9, 1190. Good VF, black patina, obverse a little off center. Exceptional for this very rare issue, possibly the finest known. ($300)

All of the few illustrated examples of this issue are so poorly preserved, or struck off center, that it is impossible to discern whether there is a symbol in the outer left field. At the same time, even on this exceptional piece, where it is clearly visible, it is difficult to determine what the mark, a long vertical line with a pellet at each end and a third pellet near the bottom, represents.

515. SELEUKID KINGS of SYRIA. Antiochos VIII Epiphanes (Grypos). 121/0-97/6 BC. AR Tetradrachm (27mm, 15.96 g, 1h). Damaskos mint. Dated SE 196 (117/6 BC). Good VF, bright surfaces, a little porosity, some light marks. ($300)

516. SELEUKID KINGS of SYRIA. Antiochos VIII Epiphanes (Grypos). 121/0-97/6 BC. AR Tetradrachm (28mm, 16.47 g, 12h). Damaskos mint. Dated SE 199 (114/3 BC). Diademed head right / Zeus Ouranios standing left, holding star and scepter; to outer left, N above A; C9P (date) in exergue; all within wreath. SC 2323.7; HGC 9, 1197f; DCA 266. EF, toned, a few spots of encrustation on reverse. ($300)

517. SELEUKID KINGS of SYRIA. Antiochos VIII Epiphanes (Grypos). 121/0-97/6 BC. AR Tetradrachm (29mm, 16.28 g, 1h). Damaskos mint. Dated SE 199 (114/3 BC). Diademed head right / Zeus Ouranios standing left, holding star and scepter; to outer left, N above A; C9P (date) in exergue; all within wreath. SC 2323.7; HGC 9, 1197f; DCA 266. Good VF, toned, light marks. ($300)

Photographs of lots 525 - 551 are 2:1, and all enlargements are 3:1.

- 531. SAMARIA. Circa 375-333 BC. AR Hemiobol (7mm, 0.38 g, 12h). Galley left; star between horizontal lines above, waves below / Persian king, holding spear and bow, in kneeling/running stance right. Meshorer & Qedar 97; HGC 10, 426. VF, toned, porous. ($200)

On this example, it appears that the die engraver was unfamiliar with Aramaic script, and thus the letters above the galley are nothing more than horizontal lines flanking a star.

Ex Dieter Klein Collection, 736.

569. JUDAEA, Bar Kochba Revolt. 132-135 CE. AR Sela – Tetradrachm (27mm, 14.58 g, 12h). Dated year 2 (133/4 CE). Façade of the Temple at Jerusalem; showbread table within, ירושלים ("Jerusalem" in Hebrew) around / Bundle of lulav; etrog to left, שנת שני לחרות ישראל ("Year two of the Freedom of Israel" in Hebrew) around. Mildenberg 7 (O1/R6); Meshorer 229 (same obv. die as illustration); Hendin 1385 (same obv. die as illustration); Bromberg 80 = Shoshana 20254 (same dies). EF, toned. Struck on a broad flan. Very rare year 1/2 hybrid, and better than the Bromberg/Shoshana specimen that realized $20,000. ($15,000)

As noted in Hendin, the first selas of year 2 were struck using the same obverse die that had been used on all the year 1 selas, and are thus considered hybrids. Another carryover from the first year is the more broadly formed flan that extends well beyond the edge of the dies.

570. JUDAEA, Bar Kochba Revolt. 132-135 CE. Æ (26mm, 12.83 g, 3h). Undated issue (year 3, struck 134/5 CE). Palm tree / Leaf on vine tendril. Mildenberg 102 (O8/R66); Meshorer 291 (same dies as illustration); Hendin 1437. Near EF, dark green patina with patches of deep red and light earthen dusting. ($400)

571. JUDAEA, Bar Kochba Revolt. 132-135 CE. Æ (24mm, 12.49 g, 7h). Undated issue (year 3, struck 134/5 CE). Palm tree / Leaf on vine tendril. Mildenberg 134 (O11/R98); Meshorer 292; Hendin 1437; SRM 133 (this coin). VF, dark green patina with light earthen dusting. ($500)

Ex Album 13 (18 May 2012), lot 17 (attributed to Gaza).

With its male obverse head, this type marks the transition in South Arabia from owl imitations to a coinage bearing local images. It is also important for the curious inscription on the diadem which in fact provides the coin’s denomination, and therefore confirms the South Arabian coin designations mentioned in minuscule inscriptions found on wooden sticks (cf. Stein in CCK). This important rarity thus represents a short and very experimental phase in South Arabian coinage. Whereas the inscription on the diadem is less clear than on the single previously known example, the present coin has a complete monogram behind the owl’s back. (CNG thanks Martin Huth for providing this commentary on this intriguing coin.)

596. ARABIA, Southern. Qataban. Unknown ruler(s). Late 2nd–1st centuries BC. AR Hemidrachm (11mm, 1.95 g, 12h). Bare male head right / Bearded head right; 𐩦 (Royal Qatabanian monogram) behind neck, 𐩦 below, and 𐩦 before. CAF 1.8biic; Huth 364; HGC 10, 714. EF, toned. Very rare, and exceptional for type. Mazakes as Satrap of Mesopotamia

Mazakes is best known as the Persian satrap who took over Egypt after Sabakes fell in battle against Alexander the Great's army at the Granicus, and later handed over the province peacefully to the Macedonian king. Imitative owls in the name of Mazakes have been known for some time, and all were originally attributed to his satrapy in Egypt. However, it was clear that stylistic elements separated the coinage into two general groups. More recent hoards, especially the 1973 Iraq hoard, have shown that one of the groups of imitative owls was certainly not struck in Egypt, but somewhere in the territory of modern day Iraq. In his analysis of the 1973 hoard, M. Price ("Circulation at Babylon in 323 B.C." in W.E. Metcalf, ed., Mnemata: Papers in Memory of Nancy M. Waggoner [New York, 1991], pp. 63-72) changed the findspot from Iraq to the more specific cite of Babylon, based on anecdotal evidence (p. 63), and gave the series of Mazakes' owls to the city. However, such an assignment has forced numismatists to conduct mental gymnastics in order to rationalize the presence of Mazakes' coins at Babylon (cf. Van Alfen, Owls, pp. 27-33, and Le Rider, Alexander, pp. 215-7, for a summary of the previous research). It is clear that the attribution of the owls to Babylon is almost certainly incorrect, and other find evidence suggests an attribution to somewhere further north, perhaps in the satrapy of Mesopotamia (cf. Le Rider, op. cit., p. 217-9). In any event, this coinage clarifies the historical record regarding the disposition of Mazakes following his hand-over of Egypt, upon which subject the literary evidence is silent. As noted by Le Rider (op. cit., p. 215), one can compare Mazakes to other Persians who peacefully welcomed Alexander to their domains: Mazaïos, who handed over Cilicia, was later made satrap in Babylon, and Mithrenes, who surrendered Sardes, was made satrap in Armenia. Also, the Persian noble Amminapes, who met Alexander in Egypt with Mazakes, was later made satrap of Parthia and Hyrkania. Thus, one would expect Mazakes to receive similarly favorable treatment, appointment to some position of authority. Interestingly, Mesopotamia is the only satrapy that is not addressed in the literary evidence when Alexander is organizing his eastern territories. As these tetradrachms of Mazakes are found in that region, and date to the period after Alexander's conquest, it is reasonable to suggest that Mazakes may have been appointed as satrap of Mesopotamia. It was also in the adjacent satrapy of Babylonia that Mazaïos was allowed to strike a coinage in his name and types (influenced by his prior issues at Tarsos) for local use, and similar issues of local type and weight are known to have been issued at mints throughout the basin of the Tigris and Euphrates, from the time of Alexander to Seleukos I. Thus, these Athenian type tetradrachms likely constitute a local coinage of Mazakes, struck in the satrapy of Mesopotamia while he reigned there.

The series has traditionally been attributed to Berenike II, the daughter of Magas of Kyrene and wife of Ptolemy III Euergetes. In his book, Ptolemaic Coins: An Introduction for Collectors (Toronto: Kirk & Bentley, 1995), Hazard has proposed instead that it honored Berenike Syra, the sister of Ptolemy III and widow of the Seleukid king Antiochos II Theos. Hazard argued (pp. 4-5) that the coins were struck in Syria from locally-acquired silver – no mention is made of the source for the gold – to pay the Ptolemaic army deployed there to press the claim of Berenike's child to the Seleukid throne, though the two had been murdered in the interim, and that, as pay, these coins were carried back to Egypt by the soldiers. The use of the long-discontinued Attic standard, he argued, implies a provincial mint rather than Alexandria. While Hazard's placement of the series in an historical context is plausible, he assumed the entire series was struck on the Attic standard, which had been the traditional view since Svoronos' time, so he does not address the question of the two standards.

A passage from Polyainos (8.50) provides a possible explanation. According to him, Ptolemy III continued to suppress the news regarding the death of his sister and his nephew – going so far as to forge letters in her name – until he had gained the nominal support of governors in the border territories of the Seleukid Empire – areas as far west as Tarsos and as far east as the Euphrates. As funds would be required to consolidate their support, the Attic weight Berenike gold denominations would make perfect sense, since some of these areas still employed that weight standard, and gold would be a perfect diplomatic medium. The coinage struck on the Ptolemaic/Phoenician standard then, would have been meant for payment to those Ptolemaic forces or allies in the Levant, where such a weight system was already in place. Thus, it is possible that the concurrent issues of two different weight standards could have been struck at the Alexandria mint. Given the city's size and central importance in the Ptolemaic Empire, the mint there could have easily handled the task and seems the most likely candidate for the series' production. If such coins were struck at cities under Ptolemaic control in the Levant, however, the mints there could have easily produced fine style dies to rival Alexandria's craftsmen.

Ex Künker 124 (16 March 2007), lot 7783.

The model for the head on the obverse is taken from both the gold staters of Philip II and the silver of Patraos, which also inspired the reverse of this coin. It is also likely that Roman Republican denarii provided models for the types. It is interesting how the Celtic artist turned Apollo's wreath into a broad diadem, quite possibly modelled on contemporary gold jewelry.

New Attributions for Parthian Coins

Since the offering of the Bellaria Collection in Triton IX, CNG's Parthian attributions have been made in accordance with the research of G.R.F. Assar, who had been working with the late Dr. Sellwood on an update to the standard reference for the coinage. Though this updated reference is still forthcoming, since Triton IX, Assar has published new research in various articles, and these have been aggregated in CNG's recent publication of the Sunrise Collection. These new attributions are reflected in the lots below, and will be followed in future offerings of Parthian coins by CNG.

The Earliest Baktrian Gold?

675. BAKTRIA, Pre-Seleukid Era. Uncertain. 4th century BC. AV (17mm, 3.44 g, 5h). Forepart of boar right / Forepart of lion right. Cf. CNG 87, lot 604 (silver, but with monogram below boar); CNG E-243, lot 15 (same); cf. CNG E-225, lot 159 (same); cf. CNG 73, lot 420, second coin (same); otherwise unpublished. Near EF, traces of deposits in devices, a couple of minor field marks. Unique. ($10,000)

Ex Triton XV (3 January 2012), lot 1342 (sold for hammer $30,000, but not paid).

This unique and puzzling gold coin raises various questions. It is clearly in the same series as a small group of silver fractions of identical types and style that have trickled onto the market over the past five years: CNG 73, lot 420 (2nd coin); CNG E-225, lot 159; CNG E-243, lot 153, and CNG 87, lot 604. Those are all silver fractions of the same types and the same distinct style as the present coin, with weights averaging 1.12g. Some of the coins have a monogram beneath the boar. Two additional fractions of the same weight and basic types, but with a scorpion behind the boar forepart, are probably to be associated with this general group: CNG E-131, lot 78; and CNG 73, lot 420 (first coin). Although the types suggest an origin in Asia Minor (compare the coinage of Kyzikos), anecdotal information has suggested that some of these silver fractions are suspected to emanate from an area further east in the region of Baktria.

The weight of the present coin (3.44 g) is likewise mysterious. It does not seem to bear any clear relationship to the weight standards prevalent in the eastern Mediterranean. It is, interestingly, almost exactly three times the weight of the associated silver fractions, suggesting that the coins may have been intended to circulate locally in a closed exchange area rather than as part of the international financial system. The unusual weight on an apparent local standard supports the suggestion above that this issue should be attributed to some region in central Asia remote from western commerce.

Good VF, a few minor field marks, obverse struck with worn die. Unique. ($7500)

Ex Triton XV (3 January 2012), lot 1345 (sold for hammer $12,000, but not paid); 1992 Mir Zakah Hoard.

Like the gold coin from Pushkalavati (see Triton XV, lot 1365), this coin represents one of the handful of examples of non-royal coinage of the region. Based on the bead-and-reel obverse and reverse borders and linking the use of the kerykeion on this coin to those bronze issues of Demetrios I with the kerykeion on the reverse, Bopearachchi dated this gold coin to the time of that king. Another possibility could be that this gold coin was struck at the time of the Indo-Skythian king Maues, who also had bronze issues with the bead-and-reel border (though only on the obverse) and the kerykeion as a reverse type.

Maaseno was the Kushan incarnation of the Hindu god Karttikeya, or Skanda, whose epithet was Mahasena. A particularly important deity to Yaudheyas, with his cult center at the Yaudheya capital of Rohitaka, it is highly probable that he entered the Kushan pantheon as a result of Kushan expansion into the territory of the Yaudheyas.

The reverse on this coin proclaims the mineral and agricultural wealth of Pautalia. Now known as Kyustendil and located in the Oblast Kyustendil province of Bulgaria, Pautalia was conveniently along the Strymon river within a mountain range rich with mineral resources. Each eros represents one of those sources of wealth and is duly named so as to leave no doubt: that representing silver comes out of the rocks from which the actual silver must be mined; that representing gold is seated close to the urn, since gold (and electrum) was collected from the Strymon river as it flowed through the mountains; and those representing grapes and grain reflect the abundant produce resulting from the fertile soil around the city. It is a fascinating composition expressing a wealth of information in a limited space.

The League of Thirteen Cities of Ionia, like other provincial koina, was a federated commonwealth, whose members were allied to one another around a central administrative figure. Often, such leagues were rooted in political and defensive needs, or as in the case of the League of Thirteen Cities of Ionia, an amphictiony. This league can trace its origins back to mid-7th century BC, when it was formed following the Meliac War. Composed of the twelve Ionic Greek poleis, it was known as the Panionic League. After 650 BC, Smyrna joined, making the number of cities thirteen – an arrangement which remained until its final dissolution in the Roman period. As the League was amphictionic, its administration centered around a particular regional cult center; the League's officer also acted as high priest of the temple. Following the absorption of Ionia into the Province of Asia under the Romans, the Asiarch also served as League's main officer and high priest of the temple.

RPC (p. 492) notes: "A very large number of 'magistrates' sign the coins (of Philadelphia) under Caligula: fifteen are certainly attested for his four-year reign. They give themselves various different descriptions and titles: priest of Germanicus, Olympic victor, philopatris, grammateus, and in a number of cases philokaisar. The impression created by this variety is that the persons are mentioned just as individuals rather than as holders of any specific magistracy; alternatively, one might think in terms of a board of some kind, as at Hierapolis."

Earliest Coin of Commodus?

846. PAMPHYLIA, Side. Commodus. As Caesar, AD 166-177. Æ (19mm, 3.52 g, 6h). AVT KAIC A KOMMOΔON, bareheaded, draped, and cuirassed bust right / CI ΔH T OYN, Athena standing facing, head left, extending hand and holding spear. Cf. SNG France 807 (same rev. die on issue of Verus); otherwise unpublished. Good VF, green patina. Apparently unique. ($150)

From Group CEM.

This coin is quite possibly the first coin of Commodus issued anywhere. His earliest issues at Rome are conventionally dated to AD 175, but are certainly struck after he attained the title of Germanicus in AD 172. This coin, however, shares a reverse die with an issue of Lucius Verus (SNG France 807), and it is unlikely that this die would have been retained so long after Verus died in AD 169. As this piece does not exhibit significant die wear, it is more likely that it was struck concurrently with the issue of Verus, while Commodus was Caesar, circa AD 166-169.

847. PAMPHYLIA, Side. Salonina. Augusta, AD 254-268. Æ 11 Assaria (31mm, 16.29 g, 1h). Draped bust right, wearing stephane; IA (mark of value) before / Tyche seated left on rocks; at feet, half-length figure of river-god Melas swimming right; all within tetrastyle shrine; pomegranate above, Δ-Ε flanking roof of shrine. SNG France 933 var. (arrangement of rev. legend; same obv. die); SNG Pfälzer —. Near VF, rough green patina. Rare. ($150)

From Group CEM.

An interesting type which copies a very identifiable shrine found on the coinage of Antioch. The engraver even went so far as to copy the “Δ Ε” found on the Antiochene types, which is generally thought to stand for the office of the emperor as tribune (Δημαρχικῆς Ἐξουσίας) or, more likely, for the four eparchies (Δ Ἐπαρχειῶν) which the Antiochene coinage would circulate in: Commagene, Coele-Syria, Syria, and Phoenicia.

The Curetes share some of the attributes of the Corybantes, dancing divinities associated with the worship of Cybele, but their specific role in Greek mythology was to serve as the protectors of the infant Zeus while he was hidden away on Crete, safe from his murderous father Cronus. Their militant dancing, accompanied by the clashing of swords on shields, drowned out the cries of the infant. The Curetes' dance was later re-enacted by young men at Greek festivals and games.

“Bring me the head of the Baptist!”

953. SYRIA, Chalcidice. Chalcis. Aristobulus V, with Salome. AD 54-92. Æ (21mm, 7.64 g, 12h). Dated RY 13 (AD 66/7). ΒΑCΙΑΝΕΥC A[PICTOBOYΛOY], diademed and draped bust of Aristobulus left; [Ε]Τ ΙΓ (date) in legend / ΒΑCΙΑΙCΗC [Α]ΛΛΩΜΗC, diademed and draped bust of Salome left. Cf. RPC 3840 (for type); Hendin 1257a. VF, untouched earthen green patina. Extremely rare, probably the second to ever appear at auction. ($10,000)

Aristobulus' wife, Salome, was the widow of Philip the Tetrarch and the daughter of Herodias by her first husband, Herod II (known in the New Testament as either as Philip or Herod). Although she is unnamed in the Gospels and the incident was unknown to Josephus (cf. AJ 18.5.4), it has been traditionally assumed that it was Salome – at the insistence of her mother – who asked Herod Antipas (who was besotted with his young step-daughter) for the head of John the Baptist in return for her risqué dance for the king. As a result, Salome has become a symbol for dangerous female seductiveness.

Following his victory at Actium, Octavian ordered a golden statue of Victory, standing on a globe and holding a wreath and palm, to be set up on an altar in the Curia in Rome. This statue had been captured by the Romans from Pyrrhus in 272 BC, and it assumed a somewhat tutelary mystique, protecting the Roman state from dissolution. In AD 382, the emperor Gratian ordered its removal. Two years later, the senator and orator Symmachus urged Valentinian II to replace it, a request that was met with stiff opposition from the bishop of Milan, Ambrose. Though it was briefly returned to its place by the usurper Eugenius, it was again removed following his defeat. Petitions to Theodosius I for its subsequent replacement were refused, on grounds that the once-important symbol of the gods' blessing on the Roman Empire was now nothing more than a piece of paganism.

Ex Property of Princeton Economics acquired by Martin Armstrong (Classical Numismatic Group Electronic Auction 271, 11 January 2012), lot 66 (sold for hammer $75,000, but not paid); Classical Numismatic Group 46 (24 June 1998), lot 1186.

Clodius Macer served as legatus Augusti propraetore Africae under Nero. As opposition to the emperor grew and the power of the central government dwindled, Macer acted as little more than a pirate, sweeping the north African coast in an attempt to increase his power by cutting into the grain supplies of Rome. Following Nero's suicide in early June, he began striking denarii in his own name. All of Macer's coins are of rather crude style, an indication of the lack of skilled die engravers and the haste at which they were produced. K.V. Hewitt ("The coinage of L. Clodius Macer (AD 68)," NC [1983], pp. 64-80) estimated the output of Macer's coinage to have been in the range of 1 to 1½ million denarii. The vast majority of coins, however, would have been melted down in antiquity, and Hewitt knew of only 71 total denarii in the name of Macer at the time of his study.

1153. Vespaian. AD 69-79. Æ Sestertius (31mm, 25.00 g, 6h). Rome mint. Struck AD 74. Laureate head right / Pax standing left, holding branch and cornucopia. RIC II 712 = BMCRE, p. 159, † = BN 710 = Cohen 314 (same obv. die); Künker 89, lot 2137 = Friedrich Collection (NAC, 2 April 1995), lot 1111 (same dies). VF, red and green patina. Extremely rare, the third or fourth known specimen. Among the finest, and better than the BN specimen illustrated in RIC. ($300)

The PAX AVGVST theme of the reverse was particularly pointed for Vespaian. Vespaian deliberately likened himself to Augustus, and in his manner cleared an area near the Forum of Augustus to construct his own forum. Within it was a temple dedicated to Pax, Peace. The theme of Peace had been Augustan too, and Vespaian was qualified to embrace it and to label it not simply Pax but Pax Augusta, not just Peace in general but the peace generated by and guaranteed by the emperor. And so it was, since Vespaian put an end to both internal war (the Civil War of 68-79) and foreign war (Judaea). There were to be troubles on the frontiers, but within the Empire that peace would last for over a century.

Ex Robert Schonwalter Collection (Triton V, 15 January 2002), lot 2053; Münzen und Medaillen AG 61 (7 October 1982), lot 466; Hess-Leu 41 (24 April 1969), lot 419; Queen Christina of Sweden Collection (reigned 1632-1654).

In 1654, Queen Christina abdicated and moved to Rome, taking with her an immense coin collection of more than 15,000 coins, some of which she had inherited. She patronized a group of prominent numismatists of the time, and when she died, she bequeathed more than 6000 coins to the Odescalchi family, and these coins were later sold to Pope Pius VI for the Vatican's coin cabinet. Her coins are easily identifiable by the crowned C stamped on them, and are some of the oldest and most prestigiously pedigreed coins.

The Usurper Pacatian

1222. Pacatian. Usurper, circa AD 248-249. AR Antoninianus (23mm, 2.15 g, 1h). Viminacium mint. 1st emission. IMP TI CL MAR PACATIANVS AVG, radiate, draped, and cuirassed bust right / FIDE[S] MILITVM, Fides standing left, holding signum in each hand. RIC IV –; Szaivert, Beginn 5; RSC –. Good VF, toned, holed. Attractive portrait. Very rare. ($7500)

Very little is known of the usurper Tiberius Claudius Marinus Pacatianus, who seized power in Upper Moesia in AD 248. Most of our information about Pacatian comes from his coinage. Viminacium is the most probable site for his mint, and a comparison with the local aes coinage shows remarkable similarity of style. Seven different reverses were used on the antoniniani of Pacatian -- Concordia, Felicitas, Fides, Fortuna, Pax, Roma and Victory -- all common themes in the third century. Such a variety of reverse types would suggest a large issue of coins, though today all coins of Pacatian are very rare, with only about 100 specimens of all varieties known.

The Usurper Jotapian

1223. Jotapian. Usurper, circa AD 248-249. AR Antoninianus (20mm, 4.21 g, 6h). Nicopolis in Seleucia mint. IM C M F R IOTAPIANVS AVG, radiate, draped, and cuirassed bust right / [VICT]OR I A AV G, Victory advancing left, holding wreath and palm frond. RIC IV 2b var. (obv. legend); Bland 8a (same rev. die); RSC 1b var. (obv. legend); B. Feirstein Collection (Part II, NAC 42), lot 161 (same obv. die); Gemini VIII, lot 408 (same dies). VF, darkly toned, usual porosity. Extremely rare. ($15,000)

Jotapian led a short-lived revolt in Syria in the autumn of AD 249 while Philip I was still emperor. Little is known of Jotapian's background. It was said that he boasted of a relationship to Severus Alexander, and his unusual name, although otherwise unknown for a man, is attested in its feminine form "Jotape" in the royal houses of Commagene and Emesa. The extreme rarity of his coins indicates that the revolt was brief, and the crude style proves that the revolt was geographically confined, for Jotapian plainly did not control a major Roman mint. His head was brought to Rome and shown to Trajan Decius "as was customary, although Decius had not asked for it" (Aur. Vict., Caes. 29.4). In his corpus of Jotapian's coins, Bland cites 18 antoniniani in total. On this example, one can clearly see the last letter in the obverse legend, the G of AVG. No dies are recorded by Bland that end with G, only A and AV. This coin, the Feirstein coin, CNG 84, lot 1302, and Gemini VIII, lot 408, from the same obverse die, are the only known examples with this legend variety.

1224. Trajan Decius. AD 249-251. AE Sestertius (30mm, 22.52 g, 12h). Rome mint, 1st officina. 2nd-3rd emissions, AD 249-250. Exceptional High Relief Portrait

Ex Property of Princeton Economics acquired by Martin Armstrong (Classical Numismatic Group Electronic Auction 271, 11 January 2012), lot 89 (sold for hammer $65,000, but not paid); Numismatica Ars Classica 15 (18 May 1999), lot 451.

The “Tres Monetae” medallions of Probus must have been struck in substantial numbers, although they are quite rare today. Like his coinage they feature an impressive array of bust types, albeit produced with the highest artistry. The portrait on the current piece is exceptional, with the details of the protruding upper forehead, deep set eyes, sunken cheeks, and weak jaw of a man in his fifties doing nothing to impede the success of what was truly the goal of the portrait – to show the embodiment of imperium.

L. Domitius Alexander led a short-lived revolt against Maxentius from AD 308 to 311, holding Africa and Sardinia. There is little known about this usurper, but there is evidence in an inscription (CIL VIII, 22183) that he and Constantine allied themselves in opposition to Maxentius. P. Salama in "Recherches numismatiques sur l'usurpateur africain L. Domitius Alexander," Proceedings of the International Numismatic Congress 1973, p. 365, note 2, suggests that at the latest, the pact was entered into by autumn of 310. The coins of the usurper Alexander are quite rare, particularly those with the star in the mintmark, as here. Salama speculated that this might have indicated a second emission that was cut short by the death of Alexander, or a parallel emission. The lack of diversity of types under this mintmark, three compared to twelve on coins without the star, suggests that it is more likely a second, rather than parallel, emission. In total, Salama noted only seven authentic examples with this mintmark. CoinArchives has only one other example of an Alexander with this mintmark, CNG 79, lot 1227, of similar quality to the present piece, which realized $5300.

Extremely Rare Constans Miliarensis

1263. Constantius II. As Caesar, AD 324-337. AR Miliarensis (24mm, 4.42 g, 7h). Siscia mint. Struck AD 326-327. CONSTANTIVS NOB CAES, laureate and cuirassed bust right / CONSTANTIVS CAESAR, four signa; SIS. RIC VIII 211 = Gnechchi 20 corr. (obv. legend); RSC 17+d corr. (same). Good VF, light cleaning marks, some light porosity. Extremely rare, possibly the second known (none in CoinArchives or ANS photofile). ($5000)

Both RIC and Gnechchi refer to a broken coin in Budapest, of which the end of the obverse legend is apparently unclear (cf. RIC VIII 211 note). RIC notes the legend as CONSTANTIVS NOB C, while Gnechchi lists CONSTANTIVS PF AVG, which certainly must be incorrect. As there are no additional examples or corrections to the listing noted in L. Sabetta's updates of RIC VII (in RIN vols. LXXXIV–LXXXV [1982–3]), it is possible that the present piece may be the the second known example, and the only one of which that has the obverse legend fully readable. It is also likely that the RIC reading of the legend, as NOB C, is incorrect as the contemporary issues at other mints use NOB CAES, which probably was the formula proscribed for all mints to follow.

BYZANTINE COINAGE

The Bramhall Collection

We are pleased to offer the Bramhall collection of Byzantine coins, consisting of approximately 400 pieces that are being sold either in CNG Auction 93 or concurrently in CNG Electronic Auction 303. This collection has been built by an English collector over more than three decades and is highlighted by many specimens acquired directly from the earlier Robert Bridge collection.

Robert Bridge (1904-1997) was a gifted linguist – fluent in German, Italian, and French – who found application for his talents in Britain's secret intelligence service. He spent WWII in military intelligence and after the war became Berlin station chief for MI6. Among his more interesting assignments can be mentioned his interrogation of the infamous Gestapo chief of Rome, Herbert Kappler, who was captured by the British while unsuccessfully trying to seek refuge in the Vatican. Berlin in the immediate post-war period was a focal point for espionage, and in much later years Bridge would privately describe experiences that seem straight out of John le Carré – the secret station office entered through what appeared to be an ordinary shop, late night meetings in a cemetery with an eastern source, and his abiding anger toward one of the "Cambridge Spies" with whom he had worked and whom he blamed for many deaths.

Bridge was also one of the most prominent 20th century English collectors of Byzantine coins, and began collecting in earnest around the 1960s. Many coins from his collection are cited in MIB 1 and 2, and 18 of his coins are illustrated on the plates. In 1990, he donated to the British Museum 274 Byzantine coins previously unrepresented in the national collection (including a solidus of the revolt of Heraclius). Much of his remaining collection was sold in a 1990 Glendining's sale (catalogued by Baldwin's), Byzantine Coins from the R.N. Bridge Collection. The Robert Bridge coins in the Bramhall Collection were acquired directly from Bridge by the present owner, prior to the later dispersal of Bridge's remaining coins through donation to the British Museum and sale by Glendining's. Most of the Robert Bridge coins are accompanied by Bridge's own handwritten tickets.

VF, dark brown patina, some green, minor flan flaws on obverse. Apparently unpublished. ($200)

From the Bramhall Collection. Ex Robert Bridge Collection, with his ticket.

A similar type, but without the N M and associated pellets, is known for Maurice (MIBE V124D). As the N M-with-pellets marking was first used during the final issues of Maurice at Carthage (MIBE N117D, 121D, 125Da-b, and 130D), and this exact reverse type is known for Carthage decanummii of the succeeding reign of Phocas (MIBE 100) and the Revolt of the Heraclii (MIBE 132), it is likely that the present issue was struck near the end of Maurice's reign.

1329. Maurice Tiberius. 582-602. AR Half Siliqua (12mm, 0.98 g, 9h). Carthage mint. Struck 602. Crowned facing bust, wearing consular robes, holding mappa and globus cruciger / Cross potent set on three steps; A O flanking; all in circle of dots within wreath. DOC 241 var. The complete legend reads "He who places his hope in thee, O Virgin, will prosper in all he does". The depiction of Mary was adopted from an icon known as the Virgin Hodegetria, in the Hodegon monastery in Constantinople. Supposedly painted by St. Luke, this icon was regarded as a powerful protector of the city and the emperor. Romanus sought the protection of Mary when he launched his assault against the Zengids in Aleppo in 1030 AD, a campaign that nonetheless ended in failure. His miliaresion struck in her honor, however, has left behind one of the most sensitive portraits of Virgin and Child in Byzantine art.

The meaning of the stars that appear on these rare histamena flanking the imperial bust has been a matter of much scholarly speculation. Hendy (DOC III, p. 734) suggested that they represented the 1054 appearance of supernova SN 1054, a celestial event that was widely seen and recorded by Chinese, Japanese, and Arab astronomers, as well as the Mimbres and Anasazi in North America, and possibly in contemporary Irish chronicles. Since it was visible even in daylight from when it first appeared in the constellation of Taurus on 4 July 1054 until it disappeared in April 1056, Grierson (DOC III, p. 736) concluded that it could not have escaped the notice of anyone interested in astronomy and "may conceivably have found its way onto the coins [since] the dates, at all events, seem to agree." A Thessalonica mint aspron trachy of Alexius I with a star on the reverse between the heads of the emperor and the Theotokos (SB 1927) supports such an interpretation, since it may refer to the Great Comet of 1106 (Alexiad 12.4.1-3). A post-reform aspron trachy of the same emperor, tentatively attributed to Constantinople between 1092 and 1118 (Triton V, 2310), and also with stars flanking the imperial bust, would argue against this, since no significant astronomical event is recorded for that period. The inclusion of the manus Dei in the reverse design differentiates this from the earlier type of Constantine IX, indicating that the stars here are not specific astronomic events. Thus, the only plausible explanation to date for the stars on this issue of Constantine IX would be the 1054 appearance of supernova SN 1054.

Ekdikoi of Hagia Sophia

1409. Ekdikoi of Hagia Sophia. 13th century. PB Seal (69mm, 149.25 g, 12h). I(ligate OV)(ligateCT)INIANOC ΔΕC[Π] down left field, ΘΚΕ (with – above) ΡΗΘΕΙ up left, Justinian I and the Theotokos standing facing, holding between them a model of the Church of Hagia Sophia containing patriarchal cross; H/A Π/A above model, C/O/Φ/I/A below / +ΤΟΙC ΘΕΟ/ CΕΡΕCΤΑ/ΤΟΙC ΠΡΕC/ΡΥΤΕΡΟΙC/ ΚΑΙ ΕΚΚ[Λ]Η/C ΕΚΔΙΚΗ in six lines; — • — below. BLS II 69c; cf. Zacos II 207 (for type). VF, brown patina, small dig on reverse. An attractive example. ($5000)

The ekdikoi were a college of priests responsible for the administration of holy sites, and had a further judicial function, in that accused criminals who sought asylum in churches would be judged by them. The office was established by Justinian I, but did not acquire a real presence in the administration of church affairs until the 11th century.

This interesting appliqué seems to have been influenced by Roman prototypes, and the style suggests a central European origin. One may note a similarity of style between this piece and the busts on various late Celtic tribes from Noricum and other areas along the northern reaches of the Danube, although the pseudo-legend indicates a much later date. It is likely that this piece was the product of one of the Gothic tribes that resided in this region in the 4th century AD.

1417. UNCERTAIN GERMANIC TRIBES, Pseudo-Imperial coinage. 5th century AD or slightly later. AV Tremissis (14mm, 1.49 g, 12h). In April 1191, a fleet bearing English forces and the fiancée of Richard the Lion-heart, Berengaria of Navarre, encountered rough seas off the coast of Cyprus. The stranded English were treated harshly by the rebel Byzantine prince Isaac Comnenus, ruler of Cyprus, who held a reputation for brutality. Richard, following in his own fleet on his way to assist his cousin Guy of Lusignan at Acre, landed at Limassol in May and in short order defeated and captured Isaac. Richard only remained on Cyprus for a few weeks before selling the island to the Knights Templar and continuing on to the Holy Land. In 1192 the Templars in turn sold Cyprus to Guy, now dispossessed of his fief in Palestine, who founded the Lusignan dynasty there. These rare and enigmatic tetartera, with their Byzantine style portrait and cross with the Latin legend REX, were probably struck in Cyprus for Richard during his brief stopover on that island. They have been found in equal numbers on Cyprus and in Syria-Palestine, indicating that they were struck on Cyprus and then accompanied the English on their continuing crusade.

When Henri was born seven months after the murder of his father, the French monarchists heralded it as a miracle (even coining Henri “the miracle child”). Following the abdication of his grandfather Charles X and shortly afterward the Dauphin Louis Antoine, the young Henri was to succeed to the throne. Yet Louis-Philippe ignored this plan and, seven days later, was himself chosen by the National Assembly. The Comte left France in exile. In the following years, he maintained contact with his Legitimist supporters. Henri would come close to the throne again following the disaster at Sedan in 1870. However, this plan was stymied by Henri’s obstinate insistence that the nation abandon the Tricolour. The Third Republic remained in power and Henri died in exile.

Belonging to a Bolognese noble family and a supporter of the Ghibellines, Brancalone degli Andalò was proposed for the office of Senator in Rome by the local government of Bologna. During the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, Rome was experiencing a rise in prosperity, due, in part, to the pilgrim traffic. At the same time, and like other Italian cities, the city was enjoying an increase in local autonomy. The entrepreneurs and new families were replacing the old aristocracy. Inspired by the influx of new wealth and rebuilding, Rome took on communal status, meaning substantial freedom from papal authority. The new government was based on the ancient Roman Senate; in 1143 Rome became a Republic ruled by a Senate. The city, however, was caught in the middle of the struggles between the Papacy and the Holy Roman Emperor. Because of Rome's unique position in relation to the Church and the numerous conflicts between the Popes and the local Roman magnates, as well as among the magnates themselves, the city hoped that the election of a foreign Senator would achieve some level of peace. Thus, the election of Brancalone degli Andalò in 1252. Accepting the position as long as his safety was secure, Brancalone degli Andalò was to hold the office for three years. After 1255 and, in order to secure his safety and independence, he continued to hold the office of Senator, exercising his post from Bologna. Until his death in 1258, Brancalone degli Andalò sought to suppress the most powerful nobles, by destroying the strongholds (i.e. towers) of 140 of them. He also sought to balance the aspirations of the working citizenry by reorganizing them and issuing a law code inspired by those of his own region. Furthermore, he was heavily involved in trying to mitigate the problems caused by the struggles between the Pope and the Holy Roman Emperor (as well as those foreign rulers who tried to influence either side). Though most of his hard work failed to outlive him. He nevertheless remained a sort of secular saint to the Roman populace, who enshrined his head in a reliquary installed in the Capitol.

A European Collection of the Coins of Venice

Since the time of its traditional foundation in the mid-fifth century AD, the city of Venice was an important regional outlet into the northern Adriatic, connecting the eastern Mediterranean with the central and northern European heartland. In the late seventh, or very early eighth century, Venice – which was until then a collection of lagoon communities united in defense against the Lombards – became united under a single leader, later known as the Doge, who was confirmed in his position by the Byzantine emperor. By the end of the eighth century, Venice had expanded to include the Rialto islands and had assumed a position of not only regional, but also international, prominence. The 803 treaty between the the Carolingian and Byzantine empires, known as the Pax Nicephori, recognized the de facto independence of Venice, the city also acknowledged its nominal subservience to the Byzantine Empire. Under the Doges of this period, Venice secured its military and economic powers, so that by the tenth century it was developing into a major mercantile empire.

During the Middle Ages, Venice tried to remain neutral in the conflicts occurring between the larger powers and the Papacy. As a result of this policy, Venice was able to extend its economic primacy into the Adriatic and accumulate wealth and economic power through its establishment of exclusive trading rights in the East. Concurrently, Venice constructed the Arsenale di Venezia, a massive complex of armories and shipyards. The Venetians became so well-known for their shipping that occasionally the Byzantine Empire hired the Venetian navy for its use. In return, Venice received extensive trading privileges within the Empire. This arrangement had long-ranging consequences for the Byzantine Empire, for Venice was becoming the Empire's main economic rival. During the Fourth Crusade (1204), the Doge, Enrico Dandolo, used the inability of the Crusaders to pay for their Venetian transport to manipulate them into sacking and plundering Constantinople. As a result, Venice not only extremely wealthy, due to receiving the largest portion of the spoils, but it also gained a firm foothold in strategic areas of the Aegean. In 1221 Venice made a trade agreement with the Mongol Empire.

Now, as a major power in Europe, Venice began to come into conflict with other European states. Its two main rivals during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries were Hungary to the north and the Italian city-state of Genoa on the other side of the Italian Peninsula. Hungary hoped to break Venice's control of the Adriatic, particularly in Dalmatia, while Genoa sought to undercut Venice's trading monopoly with the East. At the same time, Venice became caught up in the politics of the Italian Peninsula. Over this period, the fortunes of the Republic see-sawed back and forth as it maneuvered through the complicated process of Renaissance Italian politics. Following the loss of Constantinople, Venetian holdings in the eastern Aegean came under threat. Throughout the second half of the fifteenth century, Venice jockeyed unsuccessfully to hold onto its trading ports in Ionia and the Peloponnesus by entering into an alliance with Hungary, as well as the Shah of Persia. In 1479, peace with the Ottoman Empire was achieved, but at the cost of Venice ceding its territories in mainland Greece to the Turks in addition to paying an annual indemnity of 100,000 ducats.

Venice soon got caught up in the war between France and Spain for domination in Italy, as well as the conflict that emerged between the growing Spanish Empire and that of the Ottomans for the control of the Mediterranean. While Venice assisted the Spanish against the Ottomans at the Battle of Lepanto in October 1571, Philip II of Spain was careful to maintain Spanish control of the Mediterranean and prevent Venice from regaining influence in the Levant. Throughout the seventeenth century, Venice continued to decline. The establishment of other regional ports reduced the Venice's control to the city and immediate surroundings. Under the last Doge, Ludovico Manin, the city could no longer defend itself, and when in 1797 Napoleon declared war on Venice and placed warships at the edge of the Venetian Lagoon. Although the Venetian government hoped to transfer power over to a provisional municipal government, they were unsuccessful and, under the provisions of the Peace of Campo Formio in October 1797, Venice came under the overlordship of Austria. Thus, after over a thousand years of political sovereignty and influence in the Mediterranean, the Republic of Venice was no more. Also known as Olof Eiríksson, Olof Skötkonung (the Treasurer) was the first Christian King of Sweden. The epithet Skötkonung refers to Olof's role as a treasure king: taxes, a tributary relationship, the minting of coins, or an ancient land ownership ceremony have all been suggested as possible explanations. Much of what is known about him comes from the great Icelandic historian and mythographer, Snorri Sturulson, as well as the German medieval chronicler, Adam of Bremen. Olof's reign was spent in negotiating the complicated politics of eleventh century Scandinavia. At one point Olof participated in a Viking raid into northern Germany. There, he captured Edia, the daughter of a local West Slavic chieftain. Becoming his mistress, Edia gave birth to King Emund of Sweden (1050-1060) and Astrid Olofsdotter, Queen of Norway (d. 1035). Olof appears to have not always been interested in maintaining his territories. He lost control of Denmark (which his father had conquered) to Sweyn I Forkbeard and, in 1000, formed an alliance with him. When war erupted between Sweden and Norway following Olaf II Haraldsson's reestablishment of the latter kingdom, it became a personal family feud, since Olaf II Haraldsson had been married to Astrid Olofsdotter and later engaged to Ingegerd Olofsdotter. No one on either side wished the war to go on, apart from Olof Skötkonung. The Swedes became so incensed at Olof's obstinacy that one of his revered advisers, Thorgny Lawspeaker, threatened to kill the king if he did not cease and turn his attention eastward toward the old areas once controlled by his ancestors. Olof was thereupon compelled to share power with his son, Anund, and submit to the terms of the peace treaty forged at Kungahälla in 1020. Olof also betrothed his daughter Ingegerd to Yaroslav I the Wise. In 1008, Olof Skötkonung was baptised a Christian by St. Sigfrid at Husaby. Olof's death in the winter of 1021/2 was, according to legend, the result of his refusal to sacrifice to the pagan gods. He was later canonized as St. Olof of Sweden.

The restoration of Edward IV to the English throne was one episode in the thirty-year dynastic conflict known to history as the "Wars of the Roses" (1455-1485). So-named because of the roses employed by the competing houses – a red one for the Lancastrians and a white one for the Yorkists – the war was the result of the conflict that occurred between the sons of Edward III and their respective descendants in competition for the English throne. Beginning with the deposition in 1399 of Richard II by Henry Bolingbroke (subsequently Henry IV), the Lancastrian branch became the ruling family. The untimely death of Henry's successor, Henry V in 1422, left the throne to the infant Henry VI. Until 1437, when he achieved his majority, the country was ruled by regents; after this, Henry's own inability to rule effectively, as well as his personal insanity, created a volatile political instability that allowed for the rise of the Yorkists. In 1461, Henry VI was deposed by Edward, Duke of York, who became Edward IV. Edward, through the support of his cousin, Richard Neville, Earl of Warwick ("The Kingmaker") consolidated his position as king, but the two fell out over Edward's marriage to Elizabeth Woodville, the widow of a Lancastrian sympathizer. Warwick rebelled, capturing Edward, but subsequently being compelled by the nobles to release him. In 1470, Warwick again rebelled, restoring Henry VI (who had been in the Tower since 1465) again briefly to the throne. Following the decisive Battle of Tewkesbury on 4 May 1471, Edward IV was restored as king and Henry VI, deposed for the final time, was re-imprisoned in the Tower, where he died a little over two weeks later. Edward and the House of York now ruled unopposed, since direct Lancastrian opposition had been checked. Only Henry Tudor, the great-great grandson of John of Gaunt, remained – an exile in France.

Following the defeat of Egyptian forces in the Anglo-Egyptian War of 1882, Great Britain occupied the former Ottoman province, though the latter empire still claimed suzerainty even after Egypt was declared a British protectorate in 1914. In order to formally reinstate their influence in the region, Ottoman forces attacked British forces in Egypt the following year, with powers during the first world war starting to align themselves. This particular medal was a jab by Goetz at Sir Edward Grey, then British Foreign Secretary, urging him to stand up to the rising unrest against the British occupation of the region.

A pivotal and strategic fortress in the Spanish Netherlands, the Citadel of Namur had been held by the French who had captured it after the first siege in 1692. An alliance between England, the Holy Roman Empire, and the Dutch Republic resulted in a second siege of the city beginning in July of 1695. After nearly two months, the French forces within the stronghold had been reduced by over a half, and a surrender soon followed, likely serving as the most important event in the Nine Years' War.

Following the death of Queen Anne and the establishment of the German Hanoverian line in England, the Jacobite cause saw its first major uprising in 1715, in an attempt to return the throne to the Stuart line. Various campaigns were planned, but did not receive the support that was planned, and the rebels' surrender after being besieged at Preston in November quelled the uprising for a time, as it was realized that further support from a mainland European power was necessary if the cause were to have any hope of success.

Richard Howe, 1st Earl Howe (1726-1799), came from an illustrious military family with connections to the American colonies. His elder brother, George, 3rd Viscount Howe, was killed in a skirmish the day before the Battle of Fort Carillon (later renamed Ticonderoga) during the French and Indian War. Richard's younger brother, William, 5th Viscount Howe, assisted in the capture of Quebec in 1759 under General James Wolfe. William commanded the British forces against the Americans at the Battle of Bunker Hill in 1775. Richard, too, was involved in the Seven Years' War and in the American Revolution. As an officer in the Royal Navy, he helped to provide naval support against the French and, although sympathetic to the American colonists, helped in imposing naval blockades against New York City and Philadelphia.

Between the end of the American Revolution and the War of the First Coalition, Admiral Howe participated in the relief of Gibraltar and served as First Lord of the Admiralty. At the start of the War of the First Coalition (1793-1797), he was given command of the Channel fleet. On 1 June 1794, he commanded the first and largest fleet action between Great Britain and the First French Republic. Attempting to prevent a French grain convoy from America from reaching its destination, Howe engaged the French Atlantic Fleet at Ushant, delivering a severe tactical defeat on the French – who were the strategic winners, since the grain convoy made it safely to port. Once it had returned to port following the battle, the British fleet was treated to a visit from George III and the royal household, while in London, the celebration included the illumination of the entire city for three consecutive nights.

Commissioned by the Dutch Republic, this medal commemorates the victory of Turnhout, as well as the subsequent successes of the forces allied under Maurits van Nassau (Prince Maurice of Orange). The imagery is emblematic of Roman practices, whereby a trophy would be erected upon the field of victory, decorated with the arms from the captured enemy, suspended upon a spear or tree trunk, and consecrated to a deity, usually Mars.

A global military conflict between 1756 and 1763, the Seven Years' War (known in North America as the French and Indian War) involved most of the great powers of the time, and affected Europe, Central America, the western coast of Africa, India, the Philippines, and the aforementioned colonial America.

In North America, specifically, the conflict centered around the expulsion of Great Britain's Bourbon rivals in the contested overseas territories, whereupon she gained a great deal of New France, Spanish Florida, and some of the Caribbean islands. The ensuing battles focused upon the borders separating these territories, especially with New France. The name for the conflict emanates from the two major British adversaries in this theater: France and the Native American tribes within the region, who joined with the French. The outcome in North America resulted in lands gained by the British, which confirmed Britain's position as the dominant colonial power in the eastern half of the continent.

ANTIQUITIES

“Belonging” to Kemosh

1945. Bronze stamp seal of Kemosh (Chemosh). 7th century BC. Stamp seal, perforated for hanging on a string or chain, divided into three registers by two pairs of double lines. A star and the paleo-Hebrew/Moabite letters Kuf, Nun appear in the top register; their meaning is uncertain, however, the first letter may suggest the Hebrew word “kotemet” or “seal”. The second register contains the inscription “[belonging] to Kemosh.” The third and lowest register is empty. Height: 20mm. Dark green patina with earthen highlights. Portion of handle broken, otherwise in excellent condition. ($5000)

The name Kemosh seems to be an abbreviated form of a theophoric name such as Kemosh'am or Kemosh'el. Kemosh (or Chemosh) is the name of the Moabite national god, and is mentioned on the Mesha Stone and in other Moabite inscriptions as well as in the Bible (Num. 21:29; Jer. 48:7, 13, 46). See Hestrin and Dayagi-Mendels, Inscribed Seals: First Temple Period (Israel Museum, Jerusalem 1979), No. 114, p. 144, which describes another seal of Kemosh, in conical form made from alabaster. Another Moabite seal of scaraboid form, in banded agate, containing the inscription “[belonging] to Ben'adnan son of Kemoshayasha” has also been published (Deutsch and Lemaire, Biblical Period Personal Seals in the Shlomo Moussaieff Collection [Archaeological Center Publications, Tel Aviv 2000], No. 194, p. 201). Given the unusual form of this seal and the uncertain meaning of the two letters in the top register, one may consider the possibility that this was not a personal seal, but an official seal invoking the name of the Moabite god Kemosh.

CNG would like to thank David Hendin, who generously assisted with the identification of this important seal based on photographs provided to him.

THE DAVID HENDIN COLLECTION OF SCARABS

The very first scarab I owned was bought for me at the gift shop of the St. Louis Art Museum in around 1962, while I was still in high school (in those days the museum shop did indeed sell genuine ancient scarabs!). It was a gift from my father, who collected all kinds of items, and he thought I would get a kick out of an ancient Egyptian scarab. Little did he know...

In August 1967, I went to Israel as a volunteer and lived there for a year. My home for most of that time was an agricultural high school near Ashkelon. It was also about a forty minute bus ride from Gaza, which I visited several times. In the Gaza market, coins and numerous ancient objects were available. Although my main interest was coins, I remembered that scarab back at home, and took the opportunity to add many scarabs to my collection.

Many of the most interesting scarabs I acquired were selected for me over the years by friends, such as Dr. Ya'akov Meshorer, who I often accompanied to the market in Bethlehem, and Dr. Dan Barag, who I often accompanied to the Jerusalem market.

I bought many scarabs from the famous Jerusalem dealer Khalil Iskander Kando, who is most famously known as the man who sold the Dead Sea Scrolls. I also bought many of them at the Bethlehem shop of his son Samir Kando. In an interesting coincidence, another friend and dealer who sold me scarabs and coins was the late Abu Ali Altaweel, who was one of the Bedouin boys who, in 1947, found the Dead Sea Scrolls. Abu Ali was a tall, gentle man, who owned a nut shop in Bethlehem and sold coins and small artifacts as a sideline.

Here's a story General Moshe Dyan told about Abu Ali in his book Living with the Bible:

I do not think anyone has ever succeeded in duping Abu Ali by trying to sell him a fake antique or a counterfeit coin. Whenever I bought anything from him, I could always be sure that it was authentic.

One day I received a message from him telling me that he had a beautiful earthenware censer that he was sure would interest me. We arranged to meet in Jerusalem and there I saw it.... I bought it and asked where it had been discovered. Abu Ali said it was found in a cave south of Bethlehem. I asked him to take me there. I wished to see what kind of cave it was, whether a burial cave, a dwelling, or one used for pagan rites.

He promised to do so and we fixed a date. But shortly before we were due to meet, he informed me that he was very busy and asked for a postponement. He postponed the next meeting too on some pretext or other. I refrained from interrogating too closely one so much smarter than I, and I just went on waiting. The hoped-for day finally arrived and we set out for the cave.

We passed Bethlehem, and about half way along the road to Hebron we turned off westward along a dirt track in the direction of the foothills.... [I saw what] had once been a burial cave. The remains of skeletons were still there. But in the course of time it had been used as a sheepfold and as shelter for shepherds in heavy rains....

Now that my curiosity about the cave had been satisfied, I asked Abu Ali why he had kept postponing our visit. "Oh, Wazir," he replied, "this cave was being used at the time by a band of PLO saboteurs. It was they who began digging in their spare time and they who unearthed the ancient vessels and put them on the market. How, then, could I bring you here, you who are minister of defense? I had to wait until they moved elsewhere. Imagine what would have happened if I had brought you while they were still here. Either they would have opened fire on you, in which case your soldiers would have shot me; or you would have shot them, in which case their comrades would have suspected me of betraying them and delivering them into your hands, and then they would have murdered me and my children."

In Jerusalem I bought many scarabs from George Momjian, a gentleman who offered his friends as much to eat as he offered them to purchase! Another one of my favorite dealers in the 1970s was a man named Kar'aïen who had a small shop on the Via Dolorosa. He always had young, blond Scandinavian women as his shop assistants, and there was a funny, smoky smell in the air all the time – and it wasn't tobacco.

Almost all of the scarabs in my collection were acquired between the 1960s and the very early 1980s in the shops in Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Jericho, and other small towns in the area. Unfortunately, because they were small and relatively inexpensive objects, I did not record them the way I did for coins or weights, and at any rate receipts were almost never offered in the "shuks." It is now my great pleasure to pass them along to a new generation of collectors.

—David Hendin

CNG is proud to present the David Hendin Collection of Scarabs. The following lots feature an impressive variety of types, with some true gems scattered throughout.

The scarab was a very popular amulet in ancient Egypt, its shape derived from the Scarabaeus Sacer, which was revered in Egypt as an embodiment of the creator god and a symbol of rebirth. Due to their regenerative power, they are often found in tombs, although their use was not limited to the funerary world. They were also used as lucky charms and worn, frequently as a ring mount, as protective amulets. This protective function is sometimes underscored by formulas invoking protection from the gods or for good luck.

The following lots have been arranged in order by typology and inscriptions. The first section is dedicated to the pieces bearing the name and titles of officials. These are the earliest scarabs in the collection, dating to the Middle Kingdom. Such scarabs are very important as they shed light on the complex Egyptian administration, often serving as the only source for the names and titles of the officials of the period.

The second section is comprised of scarabs engraved with the names of pharaohs and queens. This is probably the most remarkable part of the collection and includes a number of fascinating and very rare pieces.

To the Egyptians, names carried a vital force. The names of kings were even more important as they carried the power of the ruler. These scarabs were produced as protective amulets for the public, and were not issued by the royal workshops.

An important factor to bear in mind is that Egyptians frequently reissued pieces to commemorate certain Pharaohs. Some of them were so highly revered, such as Tuthmosis III, that their name was put on scarabs long after the lifetime of the king. As it is difficult to precisely determine which of them are lifetime and which are reissues, we have catalogued them under the Pharaoh whose name they bear.

Special mention has to be given to two neatly carved scaraboids (lots 1968 and 1969) with attractive pale blue glazes. Among these an exceptionally rare piece bearing the name of Tutankhamun (the famous “King Tut”).

The third section is the largest and includes the so called “Hyksos” or “Canaanite” scarabs. The majority, if not all, of these were probably produced in Canaan while the region was under Egyptian influence. The Hyksos (“rulers of foreign lands”) were a people from western Asia who arrived in Egypt during the 11th Dynasty and ultimately came to ruler over Egypt between the 15th and 17th Dynasties. We dated these to the Second Intermediate Period, although a small number might be slightly earlier, going back to the end of the Middle Kingdom. Again, it can be difficult to date precisely.

The first part of the Hyksos section features engravings which can be generically described as “geometrical” and that are characterized by spiral scrolls, circles, coiled cord and cross patterns. Others were carved with symmetrical hieroglyphs or signs that do not seem to have any meaning together.

Following the Hyksos section, we offer a nice selection of animal and human themed scarabs and scaraboids. These include representations of lions, crocodiles, antelopes, hippopotamuses – all Nilotic animals familiar to the amulet owners. When human figures and deities are shown, they are usually shown in adoration, prayer, or standing near lotus flowers.

This section also features scaraboids with backs carved in the shape of human heads and various animals – baboons, antelopes, fish and many others. Carving the back of the amulet into an animal added another level of protection, invoking the deity the animal was associated with and supplementing the protective force provided by the base inscription.

The final section is comprised of miscellaneous scarabs, scaraboids, rings, and plaques which do not fall under the themes of previous sections.

Section I: Titles and Private Names

1946. Middle Kingdom. 13th Dynasty (circa 1781-1650 BC). Steatite scarab (23x16mm). Base engraved with the title and name of the (female) “servant of the ruler, Luken” within a frame. Intact but for small chip at base, once glazed, pierced for mounting. Very rare. ($500)

The name is otherwise unattested and is perhaps of foreign origin

1947. Middle Kingdom. 13th Dynasty (circa 1781-1650 BC). Steatite scarab (20x15mm). Base engraved with the title and name of the “royal carpenter, Nebsumena”. Cf. Martin 679-81 for the individual. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. Very rare. ($400)

See M. Maree’s forthcoming work Catalogue of MK stelae in the British Museum (Vol. I.1) for discussion of the title.

Section II: Royal Names

1949. Middle Kingdom. 12th Dynasty. Amenemhet II (circa 1929-1895 BC). Steatite scaraboid (14x8mm). Base engraved with the throne name of Amenhemet II, Nubkaure ("Golden are the Souls of Re"). Intact, blue glaze preserved, pierced for mounting. A beautiful and neatly engraved piece. Most likely a New Kingdom reissue. ($750)

Amenemhet ("Amun is at the Head") was the son of Senusret and the third king of the 12th Dynasty. Not much is known of his long reign although he must have continued the work of his predecessors in foreign affairs as there are records of increased relationships with the Levant. Jewelry bearing his cartouche was found in the Byblos royal tombs and expeditions are recorded to the Land of Punt and to the Red Sea. Amenemhet's pyramid was built at Dashur, near the site of an earlier King of the 4th Dynasty, Snefru.

1950. Middle Kingdom. 13th Dynasty. Queen Ini (circa 1781-1650 BC). Steatite scarab (22x15mm). Base engraved with the title and name of "The Great Royal Wife, United with the White Crown, Ini". Cf. NFA 13; Matouk I, 85; Hall 202; Basel 127. A few chips, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($400)

Queen Ini is well attested on scarabs and other sources dating to the 13th Dynasty. The name of her husband is not known but one suggestion is that she could be the wife of King Aya in the late 13th Dynasty. She is one of the earliest queens whose name is written in a cartouche.

Although royal women had a special status in Egypt, interestingly there is no word for queen and they are always defined in a relation to the husband as "king's wife" or "great king's wife".

1951. 2nd Intermediate Period. 15th Dynasty. Sheshi (circa 1650-1550 BC). Steatite scarab (18x13mm). Base divided into three vertical panels, the central one engraved with the birth name of King Sheshi, preceded and followed by the epithets "Son of Re" and "May he live forever". On the sides, ankh signs. Cf. NFA 27; Matouk I, 241. Small chips on the base, otherwise intact with clear name, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($400)

There is considerable uncertainty in attributing the exact length of the reign of Sheshi and the other Hyksos kings. The time span allocated to the Hyksos by the Turin papyrus is 108 years but due to damage in the papyrus it remains uncertain whether Sheshi ruled 13 or 23 years.

The title "Son of Re" accompanies the name given to the Pharaoh at birth, strengthening his right to rule as the son of the god.

1952. 2nd Intermediate Period. 15th Dynasty. Uncertain Hyksos King (circa 1650-1550 BC). Steatite scarab (22x16mm). Base divided into three vertical panels, the central one engraved with the birth name of an Hyksos king, preceded and followed by the epithets "Son of Re" and "Given Life". On sides, decorative signs. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($300)

The composition and titles on the base of this piece are undoubtedly characteristic of a royal Hyksos name. It is unclear whether this is an entirely new name of just a misspelling (perhaps of Sheshi).

1953. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Ahmose-Nefertari, royal wife of Ahmose I (circa 1570-1546 BC). Steatite scarab (19x15mm). Base engraved with the name of “Ahmose-Nefertari, born of Iah (the moon god), the beautiful companion.” Cf. Petrie XXIII, 13-14. Intact with the name neatly carved and clear, once glazed, pierced for mounting. Rare. ($400)

Ahmose-Nefertari was the daughter of King Tao II, ruling at the end of the 17th Dynasty, and Queen Ahotep I. She was at the same time royal sister and Great royal wife of King Ahmose I, the first Pharaoh of the 18th Dynasty and the New Kingdom. She was also the mother of King Amenhotep I and of two, and perhaps three, queens.

She lived a long life and died at the beginning of Tuthmosis I reign. Her body was discovered in the 19th century and unwrapped in 1885 by Emile Brugsch. Her mummy was apparently smelling so badly that Brugsch had it reburied on museum grounds in Cairo.

1954. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scaraboid (15x9mm). Base is engraved with the name of Tuthmosis III, rendered with three khepers. Intact but for a small chip at mouth of piercing, pleasant light blue glaze, pierced for mounting. A beautiful piece with name neatly carved and clear. ($750)

This is the first of a fairly long run of Tuthmosis III scarabs. He reigned nearly fifty-four years (including circa twenty as co-regent with his mother Hathsepsut). Through seventeen military campaigns he expanded the lands under Egyptian dominion to create the largest empire Egypt had ever seen, conquering much of the Near East up to the Euphrates to the east and Nubia to the south. Due to this hectic expansionistic activity the American archeologist J. H. Breasted called him the “Napoleon of Egypt”.

1955. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (17x12mm). Base engraved with the name of Tuthmosis III. Well preserved but for a small chip on the back, light blue glaze, pierced for mounting. ($300)

1956. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (22x16mm). Base engraved with a man kneeling in adoration of the cartouche containing the name of Tuthmosis III. Cf. Basel 326; Matouk I, 310. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($300)

1957. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (17x12mm). Base is engraved with the name of Tuthmosis III within a cartouche, flanked by Maat feathers. Cf. Frankfurt 15. Intact, pleasant green glaze, pierced for mounting. ($300)

1958. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (21x15mm). Base engraved with the crown of Lower Egypt flanked by two cartouches repeating the name of Tuthmosis III. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1959. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (17x12mm). Base richly engraved: on the top a cartouche containing the name of Tuthmosis III flanked and protected by Horus falcons; below, two human figures are kneeling in adoration of a papyrus stem, sign for the color of green and with a meaning of youth and prosperity. Intact but for a small chip at base, pleasant light green glaze preserved, pierced for mounting. ($500)

A powerful scarab with protective and growth charms. The Wadj amulet, which was made in the shape of the papyrus stem, was also believed to provide the wearer (usually deceased and in a burial context) with eternal youth.

1962

1960. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (14x10mm). Base engraved with the name of Tuthmosis III within a cartouche surrounded by Maat feathers; neb basket below. Cf. Basel 276; Fraser 225; Jaeger p. 82, G. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1961. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (14x10mm). Base engraved with the cartouche of Tuthmosis III; on the left, a Maat father and the crown of Lower Egypt. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1962. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scarab (14x10mm). Base engraved with the cartouche of Tuthmosis III; crude depiction of a man on the left. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($250)

1963. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite double-sided plaque (18x13mm). One side carved with the cartouche of Tuthmosis III with ostrich feathers on top, the other side engraved with two opposed cartouches of Tuthmosis III surrounded by ostrich feathers. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($250)

1964. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite double-sided plaque (19x15mm). One side carved with the cartouche of Tuthmosis III, the other side engraved with a bull below space-filling signs. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1965. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tuthmosis III (circa 1504-1450 BC). Steatite scaraboid (18x12mm). The back engraved with the cartouche of Tuthmosis III, the base decorated with a lotus bud between palm branches. Some wear but intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1966. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Amenophis III (circa 1386-1349 BC). Blue faience scaraboid (21x13mm). Base engraved with the throne name of Amenophis III, Nubmaatre ("Lord of Truth is Re"). Cf. Basel 349; Rowe pl. XXIV, SE. 2-3. Intact, pierced for mounting. ($250)

Rare “Marriage” Scarab

1967. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Amenophis III, with Queen Tiye (circa 1386-1349 BC). Blue paste scarab (20x15mm). Base engraved with the names of cartouches of Amenophis III (on the right) and Queen Tiye (on the left); above, the title of “the Good God” and “the Royal Wife”. Cf. Matouk I, 553; cf. NFA 137. Small chip at base, pierced for mounting. A rare and beautiful “marriage” scarab. ($500)

Tiye married Amenophis in his second year of reign. The marriage brought at least seven children, including the future pharaoh Amenophis IV, later called Akenhaton. A wise and intelligent woman, she wielded high political influence and power at court.

Tiye’s mummy was discovered in 1905 in the Valley of the Kings and is one of the best preserved in the Cairo Museum.

Extremely Rare Tutankhamun Scaraboid

1968. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Tutankhamun (circa 1386-1349 BC). Steatite scaraboid (16x10mm). Base is engraved with the throne name of Tutankhamun, Nebkeheperure (“Lord of manifestations is Re”). Small chip at mouth of piercing, delightful blue glaze, pierced for mounting. Extremely rare. ($1000)

Scarabs and scaraboids of Tutankhamun are extremely rare. We have never handled one and this is a unique possibility to acquire the cartouche of this famous king.

1969. New Kingdom. 18th Dynasty. Horemheb (circa 1321-1293 BC). Steatite scaraboid (16x9mm). Base is engraved with the throne name of Horemheb, Djoserkheperure Setepenre (“Holy are the Manifestations of Re, Chosen of Re”). Cf. Basel 390; Hall 2713. Intact, delightful blue glaze, pierced for mounting. Very rare. ($750)

Horemheb was the last king of the 18th Dynasty. Of non-royal origins, he was commander-in-chief of the army during the reigns of his two predecessors, Tutankhamun and Ay.

1970. New Kingdom. 19th Dynasty. Seti I (circa 1290-1279 BC). Steatite scarab (21x16mm). Base engraved with the cartouche of Seti I and possibly the epithet “Loved by Monthu”. Cf. Matouk I, 600 for a similar piece. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($300)

Under Seti’s relatively brief reign Egypt saw a period of rebirth both militarily and in the artistic and cultural field. He undertook a series of impressive building projects including the Hypostyle Hall in the temple of Amun at Karnak and the Temple of Seti, the Temple of Ramesses I, and the Osireion at Abydos.

Married with Tuya they gave birth to the mightiest of all the Egyptian pharaohs, Ramses II.

1971. New Kingdom. 19th Dynasty. Ramesses II (circa 1279-1213 BC). Steatite scarab (25x18mm). Back carved as a human head, base shows a falcon-headed figure (Horus) standing in front of a cartouche of Ramesses II. A few chips around the edge, once glazed, pierced for mounting. A large, beautiful piece, richly and neatly engraved. Rare. ($750)

It would be impossible to summarize what Ramesses II “the Great” has been to Egypt. The most celebrated Pharaoh of all, he ruled for sixty-seven years during which he set his mark indelibly on Egyptian history.

1972. New Kingdom. 19th Dynasty. Ramesses II (circa 1279-1213 BC). Steatite scarab (24x18mm). Back finely carved with Toth as a baboon squatting before a cartouche containing the throne name of Ramesses II. Base engraved with a crouching ram-headed sphinx wearing the atef crown; on the left the inscription “Amon-Re”; on the right “ruler of Thebes”. For a similar base, cf. Ben-Tor p. 48, 7. Small chip at base, back slightly worn with traces of blue glaze remaining. An exceptional piece with a complex back engraving and beautiful overall carving. ($750)

1973. New Kingdom. 19th Dynasty. Ramesses II (circa 1279-1213 BC). Steatite scarab (20x14mm). Base engraved with the cartouche of Ramesses II between Maat feathers. Cf. Matouk I, 639. Small chips on the back, grayish-green glaze, pierced for mounting. ($200)

Section III: Hyksos Scarabs

1974. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (22x16mm). Base engraved with a coiled cord pattern. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1975. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (16x12mm). Three deeply carved recesses on the back, once filled with paste or faience inlay. Base engraved with a coiled cord pattern. For a similar back, cf. Rowe pl. 1, 34. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1976. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (15x10mm). Base engraved with a cut coiled cord pattern. Cf. Ben-Tor p. 66, 12. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1977

1978

1977. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (16x12mm). Base engraved with a coiled cord pattern. Small chip on the bottom edge, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1978. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (18x13mm). Back carved into a criss-cross pattern, suggestive of a hedgehog. Base engraved with spirals surrounding a protection sign. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1979

1979. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (21x15mm). Back beautifully engraved with two lotus flowers. Base engraved with a cut coiled pattern. Cf. Ben-Tor p. 66, 11. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1980. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (22x15mm). Base engraved with a cartouche containing a-n-r pattern; all enclosed within a scroll frame. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1981

1982

1983

1981. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (18x14mm). Base engraved with duplicated (to strengthen effectiveness) signs of power and beauty. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

A line of discoloration such as this on the back indicates that the scarab was mounted in a swivel ring and is the result of friction on the wearer's skin.

1982. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (21x15mm). Base engraved with a coiled cord pattern within a cord circle. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1983. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (14x10mm). Base engraved with encircled signs for "life" flanking a spiral. Intact but for small chips at base, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1984. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (21x15mm). Base engraved with a scarab and the Sun (kheper-re), surrounded by a circle pattern. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1985. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (16x12mm). Base engraved with the re-nfr, sun-disk, and “beauty” surrounded by a circle pattern. Intact, partial bluish-green glaze remaining, pierced for mounting. ($250)

1986. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Stone scarab (20x15mm). Base engraved with a crude cartouche imitation within linear frame. Intact but for chip on edge of base, pierced for mounting. ($100)

1987. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (19x13mm). Base divided in four registers with two spirals on each; on top, a roughly executed Horus falcon with wings spread as a protection; at the bottom, possibly a neb basket. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1988. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (20x14mm). Base engraved with symmetric hieroglyphs on three registers with various signs of protection and power, including the crown of Lower Egypt. Small crack on the back, edge chip at bottom, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1989. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (19x14mm). Base engraved with cut cord pattern. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1990. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (18x12mm). Base engraved with a cross pattern. Cf. Niccacci 305; cf. NFA 49. Small chip on the back otherwise intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1991. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (18x12mm). Base engraved with three nfr (“good”) flanked by symmetric signs including Eyes of Horus and Uraei (Royal Cobras). Small chips at base, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1992. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (18x13mm). Back decorated with two spirals. Base engraved with symmetric signs. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1993. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (20x14mm). Back richly decorated with five lotus flowers. Base engraved with a-n-r pattern flanked by symmetrical Crowns of Lower Egypt and Eyes of Ra; above, Horus falcon with spread wings. Small chip at top edge, once glazed, pierced for mounting. A pleasing, deeply engraved specimen. ($300)

1994. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (22x15mm). Back decorated with two branches. Base engraved with symmetric signs of protection, power, and health. Intact, traces of bluish glaze, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1995. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (20x14mm). Back finely decorated with two lotus flowers. Base engraved with various symmetric signs disposed in typical Hyksos design. General protection meaning. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. A nice specimen. ($250)

1996. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (20x15mm). Back carved into a criss-cross pattern, suggestive of a hedgehog. Base engraved with various symmetric signs disposed in a typical Hyksos design. Small chips at base, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1997. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (20x14mm). Base engraved with various symmetric designs and space fillers. Intact, partial blue glaze remaining, pierced for mounting. ($200)

1998. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (19x13mm). Base engraved with ankh ("life") within a cartouche flanked by symmetric sedges ("king"), a scarab flanked by ankhs and a neb basket. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

1999. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (18x12mm). Base engraved with various symmetric signs disposed in a typical Hyksos design. Small chips at base, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

2000. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (25x15mm). Base engraved with various symmetric signs with general power and protective meaning. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($300)

2001. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (16x11mm). Back is carved into a criss-cross pattern, suggestive of a hedgehog. Base engraved with power and good luck signs. Thin crack down back and side, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

2002. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (19x13mm). Back decorated with two palm branches. Base engraved with four lotus buds interconnected. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($200)

2003. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (17x12mm). Base engraved with repeated, symmetric signs. Intact, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)

2004. 2nd Intermediate Period. Circa 1650-1550 BC. Steatite scarab (17x13mm). Base engraved with a roughly executed symmetric signs with general power and protective meaning. Chipped on sides, once glazed, pierced for mounting. ($150)
